TRAIN KILLS MANSFIELDER AT BUCYRUS

Flyer Demolishes Auto, Brings Instant Death to E. E. Kintz, World War II Veteran.

Edgar E. Kintz, 30, of 258 Central avenue, was killed instantly last night in Bucyrus when his automobile was demolished by a fast Pennsylvania passenger train five blocks from downtown Bucyrus where he had gone to visit relatives.

The accident was reported to police by the operator of a signal tower who noticed the wreckage of Kintz' automobile below the tower.

The wreck was not discovered by the engineer of the train, the crack Liberty Limited, until the stop at Crestline where pieces of the car were found on the front of the train.

Kintz apparently was trying to use an old abandoned cinder crossing at the end of East Railway street when the accident happened. He was a former resident of Bucyrus but had not lived in the city for more than 11 years.

Witnesses told Bucyrus police that Kintz, a World War II veteran, and an employe of the Mansfield Tire and Rubber company, drove through the dead-end of East Railway street up onto the tracks. The accident occurred at about 9:45 p. m. Kintz was riding alone.

Military Rites.

Survivors are his wife, Mrs. Rose DeMilio Kintz, of the Mansfield address, his mother, Mrs. LeRoy Smith, of Mansfield, his father, Roma Kintz, one sister, Mrs. Thomas Gretten, both of Lucas, and two brothers, John, of Lucas, and Elmer, his twin, of Mansfield.

Funeral services will be conducted Saturday at 1:30 p. m. at the Wappner funeral home by Rev. Earl Lee.

Kintz, who served four years 11 months in the army, will be given a full military burial in Mansfield cemetery by McVey post 16, American Legion, which will provide a rifle squad, color guard, bugler, and pallbearers for the service.

HEADS ARMY

Konev Takes Place of Zhukov as Red Commander.

LONDON—(INS)—The Moscow correspondent of the Daily Telegraph reported today that Marshal Ivan Konev apparently has succeeded Marshal Georgi Zhukov as commander of the Red army.

Hugh Chevins, who left Moscow yesterday, cabled from Berlin that Zhukov took a number of favorite officers into the Kremlin, when he withdrew last April as Soviet commander in Germany, and they formed a "pro-Zhukov military junta within the Kremlin."

However, those officers are no longer seen in Moscow. Zhukov has been reported in Odessa, presumably as military commander. He did not apear at last Sunday's physical culture parade in Moscow.

Group Calls for Police Pensions

CLEVELAND —(AP)— A minimum pension of $100 a month for 50-year-old policemen with 25 years of service was urged last night by the Ohio Fraternal Order of Police as the group ended its three-day conference.

Sixty per cent of the highest paid five years' salary, or $1,200 whichever is higher, was the lowest figure asked in the proposal to be sent to the nine-man commission now working on a uniform pension plan for Ohio's crime and fire fighters.

WAVELL TRIES AGAIN

LONDON —(INS)— The News Chronicle said today that Viceroy Wavell of India was attempting anew to establish a representative interim government of India Congress party and Moslem League members. The first British attempt to bring the two parties together in a council at the present time failed when the Congress party refused Wavell's conditions. However, both groups have agreed to Britain's plan for a permanent federation to govern an independent India.

Bomb's Big Blast Hurls Sea Skyward

Awesome Rumble Signals Destructive Release of Atomic Power.

ABOARD USS APPALACHIAN, Bikini Lagoon—(AP)—The first underwater atomic bomb, exploding with an awesome roar that thundered upward into a beautiful cloudy geyser, destroyed the battleship Arkansas and sank the huge old aircraft carrier Saratoga and seven lesser vessels today.

Associated Press Correspondent Don Whitehead, in the best position to view the blast from a B-29, said it was so powerful that the Arkansas was shoved far out of her original anchorage just before she plunged, and other target vessels near the center of the fleet of 75 were tossed about like toys.

First to go in the mighty plutonium blast that was the second chapter of the army-navy "Operation Crossroads" was the old 26,100-ton battleship Arkansas. She and two small craft, a yard oiler and a tank-landing ship, simply disappeared in the pink-fringed mist at 8:35 a. m. (4:35 p. m. EST, Wednesday).

WAR-WORN CARRIER SARATOGA SINKS

Seven hours and 32 minutes later, at 4:07 p. m., the 33,000-ton Saratoga, war-worn old carrier, settled protestingly to the bottom of the Bikini lagoon. Her prow nosed upward as if her stern were resting on the bottom, then disappeared.

A little later five submarines of the six that had been submerged in the lagoon were found to be resting on the bottom.

Probably the most powerful man-made force ever loosed—

MERCURY DROPS, SO DOES RAIN

Other Ohio Areas Are Battered By High Winds and Electrical Storms.

Thunderstorms which battered other portions of Ohio last night brought cooler weather to the Mansfield area and the weatherman said today that low temperatures are to continue at least until tomorrow night.

At noon today thermometers in Mansfield had slipped to 67 degrees after yesterday's high of 88 and rain was falling. Last night's low was cool 62 degrees.

Nearly a score of homes and barns were struck by lightning and a number of them destroyed by fire in the Akron, Columbus and Sandusky areas. Trees were uprooted and power lines torn down by 50-mile-an-hour winds.

Heaviest rains were reported in the eastern and central counties where farm crops have been badly in need of precipitation.

A Warren youth was struck by lightning when an electrical and wind storm hit Mahoning and Trumbull counties, involving thousands of dollars in damage to homes, and crops, and disrupting telephone service.

The youth, 12-year-old Richard Aldridge of Templeton Road, Warren, was reported in good condition despite burns and shock. The boy was picking blackberries when he was knocked out by the lightning.

2 Japs Get Death For Mass Murders

SHANGHAI —(AP)— A three man American military commission today sentenced eight Japanese, two of them to death, in the mass murder of 14 American fliers downed over Formosa late in 1945.

Sentenced to death were Col Seuchi Furukawa, former chief of the judicial department of Japan's tenth area and Lt. Col. Naritaka Sugiura, who was chief of the Japanese military tribunal which tried the 14 Americans.

OUT ON BAIL

BOSTON —(AP)— Lt. Thomas Farrell was out on $10,000 bail today after conviction by a jury of branding 18-year-old Helen Stavrou with lighted cigarettes and a razor blade during a 17-hour orgy last March in a Boston hotel. Farrell is to appear next Monday before Judge Edward Voke for sentencing.

Ashland War Vet Succumbs Four Days After Crackup Near Ashland.

ASHLAND — Walter G. Bachmann, 21, war vet and Ashland college student who crashed the plane he was piloting into a tree west of here Sunday, died last night at Samaritan hospital.

Critically ill for four days, Mr. Bachmann rallied early yesterday following a blood transfusion but lost strength later in the day. He died under an oxygen tent at about 6 p. m.

According to attending physicians, the young flier had sustained 13 fractures and internal injuries in the crash.

Can't Identify Amnesia Victim

STEUBENVILLE —(INS)— Police Chief Ross Cunningham appealed today for aid in identifying a man, apparently the victim of total amnesia, who was found six days ago and taken to a hospital for treatment.

The amnesia victim was described as about 30 years old, well dressed in a single-breasted powder blue suit. "Mr. X" is five feet seven, weighs 162 pounds, has dark brown hair, long sideburns, medium complexion, hazel eyes, a prominent forehead and a receding chin with a dimple in the center of the chin.

Peach Growers Fear Only Third of Crop

County Orchards Hard Hit By Frost, City Gets Supply From Southern Growers Now.

By MARGUERITE MILLER

With peaches selling from $3.50 to $4.00 per bushel, Richland county orchardists were thinning the culls from their frost-bitten orchards today and hoping for one-third of their usual crop.

The foreseen shortage of the fruit was also expected to hike the price per bushel, although growers said price would be determined when the crop ripened.

Despite the "bumper crop" prediction sent out by the Ohio Horticulture society, orchard growers in this vicinity were dubious if even a badly needed rain could make up for the damage done by frost in late spring.

Esley Cleckner, peach grower on U. S. Route 30, said the April 28 frost ruined almost two-thirds of his crop.

"I'll be lucky if I have one-third of my normal crop," he said. "Some of the trees are completely bare."

The fruit which survived the late frosts needs rain badly now, the grower said.

The former Dickson fruit farm southwest of Bellville, known throughout this section of the county for its peaches, is expected to produce only a fraction of its usual yield of peaches this year.

Mrs. Elizabeth Mills, wife of the present owner of the farm, said today that between 700 and 800 bushel of peaches will be the estimated yield. Mrs. Mills said that the farm orchard produced 3,000 bushels last year.

"Frost did more damage to

PRICES SLIP

Butter Begins to Go Off Its 'Gold Standard' in City.

Butter began slipping away from the "gold standard" today in Mansfield.

A Chicago market drop yesterday chipped off from four to seven cents on the wholesale price and brought retail sales down to between 75 and 77 cents a pound.

The first "official" reduction in price since the top price of 80 and 81 cents a pound was set three weeks ago, came after several grocers in the city were forced to drop off profit entirely in order to move the perishable commodity. First in the city to drop prices on butter yesterday were the Isaly and Page Dairy companies.

Calls U. S. Fire Loss Disgraceful

CLEVELAND—(AP)—Fire losses are "an American disgrace approached by no other nation," declares Deputy Fire Chief Harold J. Burke of New York City.

In an address yesterday before the International Association of Fire Chiefs, Burke advocated that congress create an administrative agency to coordinate and develop the nation's fire fighting services.

BARES AID TO GARSSON'S SON

Says May Intervened With Eisenhower During Court Martial of Captain.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The war department said today that Rep. May (D-Ky) twice intervened with Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower during the court martial of Capt. Joseph H. Garsson, son of a midwestern munitions maker under congressional investigation.

The department said the house military committee chairman sent two letters to Eisenhower in behalf of young Garsson who was court martialed on a charge of wilfully disobeying a lawful command of a regimental commander.

The letters went to Eisenhower in the European theater. They were handled in the "routine manner," the department said, and had "no influence whatever in the disposition of the case."

Garsson is the son of Murray Garsson, one of the promoters of the midwestern munitions combine whose war profits are under scrutiny of the senate war investigating committee. May, who has acknowledged intervening with the war department in behalf of the combine, is scheduled to appear before the committee tomorrow.

Capt Garsson was brought to trial last April 2 in Europe. The war department said the court found him guilty and sentenced him to dismissal, but recommended clemency. Garsson eventually was "relieved from active duty" last Jan. 22. He had been decorated for wounds and meritorius service.

IN JAIL

OSR Pair Wait Grand Jury Action Due in September.

Grand jury investigation of the murder of Janvere Bruck, 18-year-old Ohio State reformatory inmate, last week will probably take place in September, Assistant County Prosecutor Claude F. Ewing reported today.

Awaiting the grand jury's action are Howard Nichols, 20, and Louis Murton, 19, OSR prisoners who pleaded guilty to first degree murder charges in a preliminary hearing in municipal court yesterday. Both are in county jail.

Nichols and Murton confessed to a stabbing attack on Bruck in a supper line-up at the reformatory last Thursday evening Bruck died three hours later.

COLUMBUS —(AP)— The National Housing Agency has appointed Joseph J. Wilkinson, Columbus construction company head, as its representative to assist Mayors' committees in more than a score of central and southeastern Ohio cities with problems delaying construction of veterans' homes.

Bill To Give Price Agency Year Of Life

Measure Curbs Many Wartime Powers; Capitol Hill Confident of OK By President Despite His Previous Veto Action.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—President Truman probably will state whether he will sign or veto the OPA revival bill at a news conference at 4 p. m. (EST) today.

At the time of a White House announcement to this effect, the bill had not reached Mr. Truman. Although passed by the congress, it still had to go through the hands of the speaker of the house and the president of the senate for their signatures.

Presidential Secretary Charles G. Ross would not forecast the president's action, although other White House officials say privately and house Democratic Leader McCormack has said publicly, that he will sign the measure.

Except for rents many of the agency's wartime powers will be curbed or removed.

But on Capitol Hill, virtually no one expressed any real doubt that the president will sign the extender bill which the senate passed a few minutes after midnight, 53 to 26, and sent to the White House.

The house previously had approved the measure, 210 to 142.

When signed by Mr. Truman, the bill automatically will re-establish rent and many of the price ceilings which lapsed July 1. OPA's plans are to follow quickly with a number of temporary adjustments on prices, pending calculation of new and higher ceilings required under the measure.

The bill gives OPA life through next June, but it prohibits restoration of price controls at least until August 20 on such major market basket items as meat and dairy products, as well as on grains, petroleum and tobacco.

Senator Taft (R-Ohio), who led the fight against OPA as it existed under the old law, supported the current draft.

Has Rough Time.

The bill's rough passage through the senate was highlighted just before midnight when Wherry, the Republican whip, criticized Taft, Democratic Leader Barkley (Ky) and other conferees for what Wherry contended as their failure to insist on the senate amendments.

Coming to Taft's support, Barkley and Senator Tobey (R-NH) told the chamber that the Ohioan had stood by the senate's program for still greater OPA curbs until it became obvious that a deadlock had been reached.

Indications multiplied that Mr. Truman will approve the legislation quickly.

A member of the house appropriations committee told a reporter privately that Mr. Truman will request an additional $25,000,000 for OPA.

Congress has voted the agency $75,000,000 for the fiscal year 1946-47.

Favors Steelman.

Another indication that Mr Truman is counting on restoring controls came in the disclosure by high officials that the president plans to name Reconversion Director John R Steelman as stabilization director as well, succeeding Chester Bowles.

OPA officials acknowledged that in the case of many items the reestablishment of June 30 ceilings will be only temporary.

BRAZIL STRIKES AT COMMUNISTS

Officials Reveal Campaign Under Moscow Direction to 'Sovietize' Nation.

RIO DE JANEIRO — (INS) — Government officials warned today Brazil's police forces are poised for a swift roundup of Communist leaders to forestall implementation of a "Moscow-directed" campaign to "Sovietize" the nation.

Pereira Lira, police chief of the Rio De Janeiro federal district supplied the tip-off on the proposed attempt to flood the country with Russian propaganda.

He charged that a "Red Fifth Column is sending its forces into Brazil to enforce Communist orders," and said Sen. Luis Carlos Prestes, Brazilian Communist leader, was working in close collaboration with the Soviets.

A government spokesman said that while Prestes as a senator is immune to arrest—as are 16 Communist deputies of the constituent assembly—the constitutional guarantees of senators and representatives might be suspended "in case of national emergency."

Lira named the "general Slavic union," with headquarters in Moscow, as chief propaganda instigator in Brazil. He supplied a list of "dozens of foreign organizations in Brazil which are dominated" by the Slavic union.

The police chief also charged that the world federation of trade union and the Latin American labor confederation recently decided in Moscow to "weaken and paralyze progress in Latin America" by supporting a boycott against Franco Spain.

Canton Garbage Collectors Go Back to Work.

CANTON —(AP)— Nearly 20,000 health-menacing garbage containers, filled to overflowing during a nine-day strike by municipal workers, were being collected today as the employes accepted a promise of a 10½-cent per hour pay boost.

The strikers, members of the United Public Workers of America (CIO), voted yesterday to return to work after city council promised the pay raise and Mayor Carl F. Klein said he would not veto the legislation.

L L Blackledge, local union president, said about three-fourths of the 200 unionists at the meeting concurred in the strike-ending move.

WORKS ON TELESCOPE

SCHENECTADY, N. Y.—(INS)—Dr. Russell W. Porter of the California Institute of Technology said today that the 200-inch telescope on Mount Palomar, Calif., will be finished next year and will detect objects more than 500 million light years away. A light year is six million-million miles, or the distance that light will travel in one year. He said the mirror was now 20-millionths of an inch from perfection.

New Zealand Boy Wants Mansfield 'Pen Pal'; Italian Hopes to Find Father Here

The mail that crosses Mayor Roy W. Vaughn's desk each morning is not always strictly "official."

First it was British gals wanting bathing suits. Today come letters from a New Zealand youngster hunting a "pen pal" and a man in Italy looking for his father.

Vaughn always takes time to read these notes and then refers them to proper "committees" for appropriate "action."

Most of the letters are legible but some have been written by hands unfamiliar with the English language and it takes a bit of interpreting and fitting together of phrases before the requests can be understoood.

They're easy to spot in the mayor's pile of morning mail. The envelopes carry varied and multi-colored cancellation stamps, applied as the letters passed through different post offices. Most are addressed just: "Mayor, Mansfield, Ohio, USA."

The request from two British women for hard-to-get-in-English bathing suits has already been filled. Miss Jean Kelley, city building receptionist, got the job of coming to the rescue of the suit-less British gals. She said today that three suits of varying sizes—have been shipped to England.

The request for a "pen pal" by 12-year-old Robert Elliot in Central Otago, New Zealand shouldn't be hard to fill either.

Bob says he likes swimming, shooting and "cricket" in the summer and skating, "sledging" and skiing in the winter and wants to correspond with a boy or girl of his own age in Mansfield. He wants, too, to "ex-

GETS THRILLS

Veteran Circus Performer Has Had Many 'Close Calls.'

CHICAGO (NS)— Every boy may dream of running away from home to join a circus but few carry out the dreams as completely as has Terrell Jacobs.

As a boy Terry Jacobs spent long hours at the circus training grounds near his home in Peru, Ind. When the circus packed up each spring and departed for its nationwide tour, he felt desolate.

So he became an animal trainer. That was 26 years and many hair-raising adventures ago.

On his body are scars of 5,8 stitches taken as the result of slashes made when wild animals clawed him. His narrowest escape was when a leopard jumped on him from the top of the cage and 54 stitches were necessary to close wounds on his head.

His favorite lion performer, Sheba he says, is "sometimes worse than a woman." But the unmarried Jacobs added:

"At least she doesn't ask me to stand in line for nylons."

Mansfield Men Enter Marines

Two Mansfield men today signed up for duty with the U. S. Marine corps at the Mansfield recruiting station.

Denzil Albert Blake, 109 South Willis avenue, will leave Monday for Cleveland to enlist, as will Frank Alter Hoffman, 99 Brickman avenue. Blake, formerly served with the Fourth Marine division at Roi Namur, Saipan, Tinian and Iow Jima. Hoffman is enlisting for the first time in the Marine Air corps.

Scientists believe that the roars emanating from old Rumbling Billy mountain at Lake Lure, N. C. are caused by boulders falling from the roofs of caves deep in the mountain.

Regula Hurls Shell Oil To 5-0 Win Over Safety Cab

Bums' Home Record May Tell NL Story

Regain Lead With 30th Win In 39 Starts On Own Park; Giants Whip Cards, 3-1.

By JOE REICHLER, AP Sports Writer.

Those who have started to count the Brooklyn Dodgers out of the National league pennant race because of their recent near-disastrous road trip, might take a look at Brooklyn's amazing home record at Ebbets' field where they still have 38 games to play this season.

Forced to share the National league's top berth with the St. Louis Cardinals for four days after leading the parade for more than two months, the Dodgers wasted little time upon their return home yesterday to regain undisputed possession of first place.

This they did by notching their 30th victory in 39 home games, at the expense of the third place Chicago Cubs while the Cardinals were thrashed by the New York Giants.

With an after-dark crowd of 30,677 fans on hand to welcome them home, the Dodgers eked out a brilliant 2-1 triumph over the Bruins, principally on the fine hurling of Southpaw Joe Hatten.

The Giants, nemesis of the Redbirds all season, shoved the St. Louis aggregation one full game behind the Brooks when they beat the Cards for the ninth time in 14 meetings this season, 3-1. Johnny Mize's 20th home run in the ninth inning with one mate aboard helped the Giants.

In the American league, the Boston Red Sox maintained their 11½-game margin over the runner-up New York Yankees by taking advantage of a pair of miscues to defeat the Chicago White Sox 4-1. Although they rapped Orval Grove for 14 hits, they needed the help of errors by Luke Appling and Frank Hayes to tally three unearned runs to pave the way for Tex Hughson's 11th mound triumph.

The Yankees kept the pace by defeating the St. Louis Browns, 5-3, under the lights at Sportsman's park. After overcoming a 2-0 lead with a brace of runs in the third frame, the Yankees went ahead when Johnny Lindell homered with one on in the fifth.

Although needing the help of Joe Page in the ninth, Spud Chandler registered his 15th triumph as the Brownies' Jack Kramer went down to his fifth defeat as against ten victories.

Bobo Newsom, veteran Washington righthander, duplicated Feller's feat by outpitching Detroit's Dizzy Trout, 1-0. Newsom scattered seven safeties in registering his seventh success. A single by Pinchhitter Cecil Travis scored Stan Spence in the seventh to break up a scoreless hurling duel.

A pair of former American leaguers collaborated to give the Philadelphia Phillies a 2-0 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates. Veteran righthander Schoolboy Rowe, former Tiger ace, limited the Bucs to seven scattered safeties to notch his tenth victory with Jim Tabor, former Red Sox infielder, accounting for both Philly runs with his sixth home run in the third inning.

Feller Allows Three Hits In Winning 18th

CLEVELAND—(AP)—The boys who write pieces for the papers say the Cleveland Indians are a different ball club these days and a little figuring proves they're right.

A check of the record discloses that before President Bill Veeck and his associates took over the Tribe had won 25 and lost 34 for an unimpressive .424 percentage.

Since the advent of the new front office regime the Redskins have won 18 and lost 13 for a .581 figure.

The Tribe's latest triumph was a 1 to 0 job against the Philadelphia Athletics yesterday. Bob Feller and Hank Edwards combined to produce the win, Feller limiting the A's to three singles while Edwards poled a circuit clout over the right field wall in the fourth inning.

The victory was Feller's 18th of the year. In recording his eighth shutout of the campaign, Bob lashed his strikeout pitch past nine athletics to reach an even 220 for 213⅔ innings of work.

Mel Harder, dean of the Indians' mound corps, will bid for the 215th triumph of his career in the final game of the series today. Luther Knerr will toil for Philadelphia.

Legion Finals Start Monday

DELAWARE, O.—(INS)—Ohio's far-flung American Legion junior baseball program will determine its champion in a double-elimination tournament at Delaware next week.

Twelve district champs will compete in the state clashes beginning Monday. The tourney will be played on Ohio Wesleyan's Edwards Field and at the Delaware high school diamond.

Ohio's winner will compete against Indiana, Michigan and Kentucky champions for a spot in the national tournament at St. Paul, Minn.

Teams entered in the tournament are: Pemberville Post 183, Delphos (268), Springfield (6), Cincinnati (59), Mansfield (16), Columbus (1), Portsmouth (23), Lancaster (11), Akron (209), Lisbon (275), Zanesville (29) and Cleveland (313).

Post 72 to Play Twice Sunday

American Legion Post 72 baseball team will play two games Sunday afternoon at Tillman's park on North Main street.

In the first game, the club will face the strong Creston Pirates starting at 1:30 and then will take on the Mansfield Tigers in the nightcap.

Last Sunday the Post 72 nine defeated a 6-5 triumph over the West Salem Merchants with John Shook going the full nine innings.

Pre-Tourney Favorites Fall In National Publinks Play

DENVER (AP)—The headliners of the qualifying rounds all had wilted under the pressure of match play as the national public links golf tournament that unpredictable classic of the workaday class moved dizzily into the second round today.

Medalist Jimmy Clark of Long Beach, Calif., who qualified with the lowest medal score ever shot in U. S. G. A. golf tournament history, bowed out in his first match by Marshall Hoit, a teammate he had always beaten easily on Long Beach's home courses.

Into the discard with Clark went the next six lowest medal shooters—Robert Silvestri of San Francisco, Ralph Hall of Oakland, Calif.; Buck Gann of Tulsa, Okla.; Tal Smith of Alameda, Calif.; Carl Dezern of Durham, N. C., and Jack Koennecker of Denver.

The defending champion, William Welch of Spokane, Wash., fell, too, before Rudolph Horvath, 23-year-old former Canadian royal air force pilot from Windsor, Ont., who shot a two-under-par 69 for a 2-up triumph on Wellshire's tough municipal course.

Valentino Chicerini of Toledo who had to go through a sudden-death play-off to qualify, was Ohio's only remaining entry.

Chaverini won from Warren Rojem of St. Joseph, Mo., 2 and 1 in a first round match yesterday, then defeated Talbert Smith of Alameda, Calif., 4 and 2 in a second-round match. He meets N. J. Whitney of Los Angeles today.

The third round and quarter-finals, both scheduled for 18 holes, will be played today. Semi-finals Friday and finals Saturday will be over the 36-hole route.

Indiana Up Lead In Association

By the Associated Press

Indianapolis increased its lead in the American Association pennant race to two and one-half games over second place Louisville by winning both ends of a doubleheader from Kansas City last night, 2 to 1 and 8 to 2. At Louisville, the Colonels downed the Milwaukee Brewers 13 to 6 in a single game.

Toledo swept a two-game series from St. Paul, beating the Saints 9 to 5 to give the Mudhens their eighth win in their last 13 starts. The scheduled Minneapolis at Columbus game was washed out by rain.

CAGE STAR SIGNS

BUFFALO, N. Y.—(UP)—Bob Daugherty, former Virginia Union university basketball star who scored 1,078 points in four years of college competition, signed with the Buffalo Legion club of the National Professional Basketball league yesterday, the first Negro player to join the 12-team circuit.

IN THE SPORT LIGHT
by Hal Clawson

Rex Benton, who got his start in professional baseball here in 1940 with the Mansfield Braves in the Ohio State league, is back in O. B.

An Ashland high product, Benton is now hurling for the Greenville, N. C., club in the Class D Coastal Plain league.

Last week Benton was the winning pitcher as the Northern division all-star team defeated the Southern division all-stars, 9-5.

The 23-year-old pitcher is participating in his first pro season since his discharge from the navy. The circuit in which he is working is the same caliber as the present Ohio State loop.

A couple of former Ashland softball stars are coming back to the nearby city for a special softball attraction Friday and Saturday nights.

The Ashland GI all-stars, a club picked from ex-servicemen playing in the city's one softball league, will play the Lorain Sobel Jewelers at Brookside park in Ashland tomorrow night and then face the Pumphrey Clothiers of Columbus Saturday night.

Flying in from Florida are Pitcher Ollie Barker and Catcher Chappie Lawton.

Both of these softball stars hurled the Faultless Rubber to the finals of the 1941 men's state softball tournament.

Barker, who tipped the scales at better than 200 pounds, was one of the fastest chuckers ever to throw a ball in these parts.

Nig Murray, the Wooster sports scribe, wants to know whether a Massillon high football player is worth $20,000 a year.

"Would you figure it was worth $20,000 to play football at Massillon high?" wrote Nig in his column the other day. "Paul Prine, 18, does, or at least did recently."

It seems that Prine has asked that sum in a suit filed against a Gallipolis woman, alleging she was at fault in a traffic accident in which he lost a toe.

The accident, Prine contends, prevents him from participating in the grid sport at Massillon high and therefore he was damaged to the extent of $20,000.

Mt. Vernon, which it seems, has been having plenty of trouble keeping its coaching staff lined up, has lost another.

This time it's Dave McDowell, former all-Ohio football and basketball star at Muskingum, who has resigned the Mounts' assistant coach to take a similar post at Cleveland Shaw.

E. W. Crabbs, 35, former New London high tutor, is going to be offered the assistant's job. Crabbs is now taking graduate work at Ohio State after two years in the navy.

Only man on the Yellowjacket staff besides Head Coach Dwight Bumpus is Tommy Thomas Myron Prech, former cage coach, resigned earlier.

One-Armed Star

ONE-ARMED golfer, Prospero Gianvito, posted a 74 in the amateur qualifier for the Tam O'Shanter All-American tourney in play at that Chicago course. He is from Columbus, O. (International)

Cabs Held To Four Safeties

Windsor the Loser; Kleins Win Sixth.

Bob Regula silenced the bats of Safety Cabs last night as he hurled his Shell Oil nine to a 5-0 win over the Independent league leaders at North Lake.

It was the second league loss for the Cabs and throws the pennant fight into an even closer battle than had been anticipated.

Klein Furs—who also have two setbacks—picked up their sixth triumph with a narrow 5-4 win over Mansfield Hardware at Johns..

In the loop's third contest, Num Num blasted DAV, 19-1, at Prospect.

Regula set the Cabs down on four hits—three singles and a double, the latter by Bill McCarrick.

Shells got to Kenny Windsor for eight safeties which included two triples by Witchey, one by Regula, and two doubles by Shill.

The winners scored a run in the second, two in the fourth and two in the sixth.

Deschner hurled a six-hitter as Kleins turned back the Hardware while Larry Madden was being reached for eight.

Num Num's Den Berry set the DAV down with three hits while his teammates were getting to Bower for 18. Gibson and Holly homered for the Num Num nine with Berry helping his own cause with a triple and double.

Rain Stops OS League Play

(By Associated Press)

Rain spoiled half of the Ohio State league's schedule last night while Zanesville gained a half game on first-place Springfield and Middletown took fifth place from Lima.

Marion's doubleheader at Richmond was postponed because of rain and two games will be played in the Indiana city tonight. Newark and Springfield also were rained out and scheduled a doubleheader.

At Middletown, the home team Reds won 10-6 over the Lima Terriers, to go into top spot of the second division by a half game. After a four-run rally in the opening inning, the Reds stayed in front, helped by Pete Shurman's two-run homer in the second inning.

It took Zanesville an extra inning in a rain-delayed game at Dayton to win 10-8 on Joe Destefano's two-run single. Nine of the 10 Zanesville runs were unearned.

TWO TIED FOR LEAD IN SHELBY LOOP

SHELBY—Eagles and Laubie's Shell Filling Station are tied for the lead in the second half of the Shelby softball league.

The Eagles defeated the CIO-Steelworkers' Union, 5-0, Wednesday night on the waterworks field to go into the tie.

The Saleshook company plays the Legion tonight at 6 p. m. on the waterworks diamond.

All-American Golf Tourney Opens Today

CHICAGO—(AP)—The 1946 All-American golf tournaments were set for opening at dawn today, with some 270 players, professionals and amateurs, lured to the greens of the Tam O'Shanter Country club to collect a part of the richest purse in golf history—$50,875.

The sixth annual three-ring golf show is booked for a four-day stand by the country's leading pros, amateurs, and women in three 72-hole medal play battles. The cast includes 185 professionals, 50 amateurs, and 35 women, and just about all of the names familiar to golf fans were among the entries.

Dawn to dusk schedules were arranged for the first two days because of the large entry.

After the first 36 holes the playing personnel will be reduced to the low 100 pro scorers and ties, 40 low amateurs and ties, and 30 low women scorers and ties entering the final two rounds, 18 holes on Saturday and 18 on Sunday.

Although there were a galaxy of stars competing, Byron Nelson took over the familiar role of favorite and defending champion.

Patty Berg, the Minneapolis star, was back to defend the All-American women's title, which she first won in 1943 and repeated in 1945. Art Doering, who won the amateur tourney last summer, was not eligible to defend his crown as he now is a professional.

Loans Play In Finals

Provident Loans girls' softball team will face Smittv's Grill tonight at 9 o'clock in the district finals at Marion.

Last night the Grills defeated Cochran and Dryample of Mt. Vernon, 16-6, in the opening round game.

Since only three teams entered the girls' tourney, one game was played last night with the Loans drawing a bye.

Winner of tonight's contest will compete in the state tourney at Columbus, Aug. 16, 17 and 18.

Outdoor Mat Show Tonight

Whitey Whitler will tangle with Angelo Martinell tonight in the main go on the weekly wrestling card at the Armory outdoor arena.

They'll go for the customary two out of three falls with a one-hour time limit.

In the opener at 8:30, Promoter Early Myers has signed Steve Memoff and Sgt. Bob Cummings. Cummings, for a few weeks, held the world's junior heavy title.

Two Rounds Set For Today and Friday

Wiseman Faces Ed Meister While Hager Plays Dayton's Cramer Hahan.

LIMA—Mansfield's two entrants in the Ohio amateur golf tourney, over the long Shawnee Country club course, won their opening round matches yesterday.

Al Hager came through with a 6 and 5 win over Chick Hendrickson of Sandusky while Carl Wiseman had to go 21 holes before turning back a fellow Richland countian, Jim Root, of Shelby.

Both fired 73's yesterday.

Today Wiseman faces Ed Meister, Cleveland, while Hager opposes Cramer Mahan, Dayton.

With the first round upsets and setups out of the way, the tourney settled down today with a three-time winner and a 21-year-old newcomer sharing the co-favorite roles.

Up in the top bracket as the 32 first-round survivors marched into the second day of match play was Paul (Pete) Dye, jr., of Urbana the tourney medalist with 68. He eliminated Bill Jaeger of Columbus by 4 and 3 in the opening round.

Favored to meet Dye in Saturday's 36-hole finals, unless someone runs into a snag along the way, was Maurice McCarthy of Cincinnati, three-time winner of the simon-pure classic and the field's most seasoned tournament player. McCarthy ushered veteran John Roberts of Columbus to the sidelines yesterday, 4 and 2.

Still in there swinging, however, were a group of talent-laden contestants including Carlin Short of Akron, newcomer Dick Tang of Dayton, the former Minneapolis star who has held both the Minnesota and Iowa crowns; Eddie Meister of Cleveland who went to the 1937 finals and was beaten by McCarthy; Jimmy Stout, Lima city and Shawnee club champion; and the usual number of dark horses capable of rising to the heights on any given day.

Dye, who weighs 160 and stands five feet seven, meets Tony Ruddy of Toledo in today's second round, Ruddy having advanced with a stout 7 and 6 win over Cleveland's James Alcorn.

McCarthy had as his opponent Eugene Friedt of Sylvania, who opened with a 2 and 1 conquest of Byron Hunt, former state publinks champion from Columbus.

Ed Preisler of Cleveland, second to Dye in the qualifier with a sub-par 70, romped to a 7 and 6 first round win over southpaw Wallace (Doc) Elliott, former fullback for Lafayette college and the Canton Bulldogs.

Sandusky's personable brothers Biagetti—Leo and Angelo—were still firing. Angelo, 28-year-old ex-artilleryman, eased past Frank Bellino of Youngstown, one up, while young Leo, who hits the ball as far as McCarthy, outplayed R. D. Lutz of Ashland, 4 and 3. The brothers are in different brackets, and can't meet unless both hit the finals.

Two rounds are scheduled today and Friday, whittling the qualifying field of 64 down to the two finalists.

Bedtime Stories

—By Thornton W. Burgess

There's much he has to go without
Who is too proud to nose about.
—Jimmy Skunk.

Peter Rabbit felt uncomfortable. He did so. He and Mrs. Peter had just seen Mr. Blacksnake leave the dear Old Briar-patch going toward the Old Pasture. He had glided all through the Old Briar-patch looking into every nook and corner, into every possible hiding place.

"You see," said Mrs. Peter mildly. "If our babies had been hidden here he would have found them, and he is so big that we couldn't have saved them. As it is he isn't sure that we have any.

"There isn't anything here for you to eat," declared Peter.

Anyway he hasn't the least idea where to look for them. So it is a good thing I didn't make the nest for our helpless bunnies in the dear Old Briar-patch as you seem to think I should have done. The Briar-patch is the safest place in all the Great World for us, but not for our babies when they are helpless.

Peter grudgingly admitted that Mr. Blacksnake seemed to have proved this to be so. There was little he could say and he didn't say that little for just then Jimmy Skunk poked his head out of Grandfather Chuck's old house in the middle of the Briar-patch.

"Did I hear someone talking?" asked Jimmy.

"When did you come to the Old Briar-patch? We didn't know you were here," said Peter in surprise.

"Just before daylight. I guess you were not home yet and Mrs. Peter was in another part of the Briar-patch. I happened to be near here and decided to spend the day," replied Jimmy, and yawned. "Did I hear Mr. Blacksnake mentioned?"

"Yes," said Mrs. Peter. "He just left. He has been all over the place. He even went down in that old house where you were. He probably discovered you there. Now I think of it he did come out of there in something of a hurry. He was looking for babies. He didn't find them."

Jimmy showed sudden interest. "Babies," said he. "Whose babies?"

"Ours," said Peter, and wished he had kept his tongue still.

Jimmy Skunk's face brightened. "Have you got babies? Where are they? Did he find them?" he asked.

"No, he didn't," replied Peter, answering the last question as if it were the only one.

"That's good. That's very good," said Jimmy, and began nosing about as if looking for something.

"What are you looking for?" asked Mrs. Peter sharply.

"Something to eat," replied Jimmy, keeping right on nosing about.

"There isn't anything here for you to eat," declared Peter.

Jimmy acted as if he hadn't heard Peter. "Where did you say those babies are?" he asked.

"I didn't say, and you know very well I won't say, so stop asking foolish questions," replied Peter.

"But of course they are somewhere here in the Old Briar-patch," said Jimmy, quite as if he hadn't heard Peter. "I would love to see those babies," he added, still nosing about.

Peter opened his mouth for a sharp retort, but saw Mrs. Peter shake her head, so closed it again without saying anything. Jimmy continued to nose about, but of course he did not find the babies. After a while he went back into Grandfather Chuck's old house to sleep until the Black Shadows should come creeping out from the Purple Hills.

"Supposing those babies had been here," said Mrs. Peter.

"I don't want to suppose anything of the kind," replied Peter. "Come to think of it, I guess mothers do know best, and they ought to. I am glad those babies of ours are hidden where no one will think to look for them. You are wise, my dear, very wise. Just where did you say they are?"

"I don't see why some folks want to eat the babies of other folks," said Mrs. Peter, quite as if she hadn't heard what Peter had said.

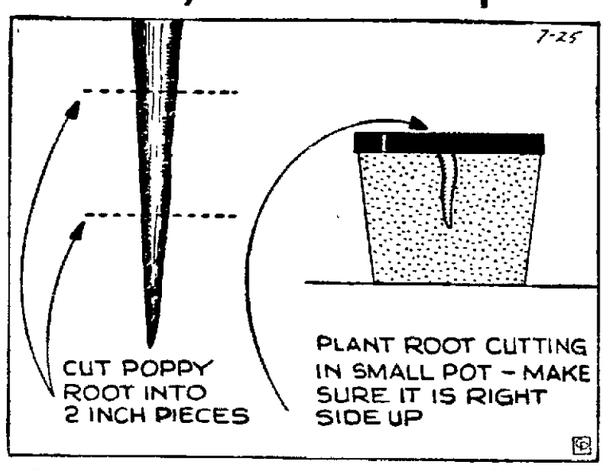
Peter still doesn't know where those wee bunnies were. "What Peter doesn't know he can't tell," says Mrs. Peter, and never does let him know where the nursery nest is.

The next story: "None of Peter's Business."

CRUEL TO DUCKS

PUEBLO, Colo. — (U.P.) — Joe Diesla was fined $20 in Pueblo police court on charges of malicious mischief and violation of the city firecracker ordinance. The charge: Feeding firecrackers—with fuses burning—to ducks in the city park lake.

Today's Garden-Graph



Poppy Roots Can Be Propagated Now

By DEAN HALLIDAY

Many gardeners may not know that their favorite Oriental poppies can be propagated by root cuttings at this time of the year. The dormant period of the Oriental poppy follows their outburst of blooms. At this time the plants can be dug up and the thick, fleshy roots can usually be propagated without difficulty.

When preparing to propagate popies, cut one of the long, fleshy roots into sections about 2 inches long, as illustrated in the accompanying Garden-Graph.

Plant the sections of root in a light, sandy soil in a small flower pot, as illustrated. Be sure to plant the root right side up. Cover with 1 to 2 inches of soil and keep over winter in a cold frame. A new crown will form from this section of root.

By spring the small poppy plants should be well established and ready to set out in the garden. Blooms can be expected on the new plants the second year.

Other plants which can be propagated by root cuttings are Anchusa, Dicentra, Gysophila and Peonies.

Do not distrub or dig up Oriental poppies unless it is for the purpose of propagating their roots. When Oriental poppies are transplanted it takes a season or two before the flowers regain their original size and color.

During the dormant period of these poppies care must be exercised in cultivating near them, since during August and September no part of the plant is visible above the soil. At this time deep cultivation is apt to injure the crowns below the surface.

Barclay on Bridge

Not a very large percentage of contract players know the "three trump echo," and a still smaller percentage of them actually use it. That is understandable because the situations in which it has any importance are not too frequent. But when they do arrive, that signal can decide the issue, whereas nothing else might. It is quite simple, merely playing your middle card on the first round of the declarer's trumps and your lowest on the second to proclaim possession of a third trump higher than you have shown.

	♠ None ♥ Q 9 8 5 4 ♦ 4 3 2 ♣ K 9 7 5 4
♠ 8 7 5 2 ♥ A K ♦ 10 8 5 ♣ A J 6 2	N W E S	♠ Q 6 4 3 ♥ J 7 6 ♦ J 6 ♣ Q 10 8 3
	♠ A K J 10 9 ♥ 10 3 2 ♦ A K Q 9 7 ♣ None

(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
2 ♠	Pass	2 NT	Pass
3 ♦	Pass	3 ♥	Pass
4 ♦	Pass	4 ♥	Pass

South should have passed the 4-Hearts, which was the correct contract for the pair, but he was greedy about those 100 honors in spades, which would perhaps help his side win a close rubber. In bidding 4-Spades, he took an unnecessary and unjustified risk.

Millard P. Kaiser, of St. Louis, opened the heart A and followed with the K to tell Mrs. Kaiser in the East that he had only those two cards in the suit. Next he led the diamond 5, the J forcing the A. Then South went after trumps, leading the A, K and J, which Mrs. Kaiser took with the Q. She noticed her husband play the 2 on the first spade, the 5 on the second and then the 7 on the third. That swung the balance.

"If he held only those three cards," reviewed Mrs. Kaiser, "he would have played the middle 5 first, then the 2 to show possession of a third. Since he played from the bottom up, he did not have exactly three trumps. Hence he has another trump left."

As a consequence, she led a heart back and Mr. Kaiser ruffed with the spade 8 to set the contract. Had the pair not been a user of the "three trump echo," East might have guessed her partner to be out of trumps after showing three. Any other return except a heart at that stage would have given South his contract.

Tomorrow's Problem.

	♠ A J 10 4 ♥ 8 5 4 2 ♦ 7 2 ♣ A 8 4
♠ K 9 ♥ J 10 7 ♦ A 9 8 6 3 ♣ Q J 5	N W E S	♠ 8 6 5 2 ♥ Q 6 3 ♦ K 10 5 ♣ 9 7 6
	♠ Q 7 3 ♥ A K 9 ♦ Q J 4 ♣ K 10 3 2

(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

Upon winning the third diamond trick, how should South play for a No Trump game on this deal?

Hidden Hollow Campers Stage 'Fiesta Day'

Yesterday was fiesta day for some 80 Friendly House campers at Hidden Hollow as boys and girls were divided into four groups of "hombres," "peons," "gouchos," and "caballeros" to play such typical Latin American games as "pinata," a Christmas game of South America; "chivas," and "sol y sombra," which is translated as "sun and shadow."

Boys, attired in sombreros and serapes, and girls wearing colored flowers behind their ears, earrings and colored sashes made in the craft classes joined in singing "Chiquita Banana," "Down Mexico Way," and other Latin tunes.

Even in the dining hall the Latin motif was carried out as campers dined on tropical fruits and chili in "El Restaurante" which was decorated with palm trees, cacti, and colored balloons and streamers.

VACATION YAWN HURTS

MOULTRIE, Ga.— (U.P.) —It was the first day of his vacation, and George H. Randall stretched in bed and yawned wide in relaxation. He yawned a bit too wide, however, and dislocated his jaw. But not to be cheated out of his vacation rest, he had the jaw set and returned to bed.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

ASK $51,000 DAMAGES FOR ZIVKOFF CRASH

Suits Against Pennsylvania Railroad Filed By Two Estates.

The Pennsylvania railroad today was named defendant in three law suits asking a total of $51,000 damages in the auto-train crash deaths of Michael Zivkoff, 18, and Miss Lois Veach, 16, at the Spring street crossing in Loudonville April 4, 1945

Petitions on behalf of the estates of the two young people were filed in Ashland county common pleas court by the Mansfield law firm of Anderson Will and O'Donnell.

Zivkoff, a private in the army at the time of his death, was a former star halfback on the Mansfield Senior high school football team, playing with the Tyger squads of 1942, 1943 and 1944.

Miss Veach was a junior in Loudonville high school at the time of her death.

Each of the three petitions charges the railroad negligent in not maintaining clear vision of its warning signs and its tracks for motorists proceeding in a former sta halfback on the Mansnortherly direction on Spring street

One petition, filed on behalf of Peter Zivkoff, Michael's brother who is administrator of his estate, is for $25,000 damages in the death of Michael and another is for $1,000 damages to the auto in which the young people were riding.

The third petition was filed on behalf of Mrs. Erma Veach, mother and administratrix of the estate of Miss Veach, and asks $25,000 damages for her wrongful death. Mrs. Veach lives near Loudonville.

Zivkoff was the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Zivkoff, 283 North Main street. Peter Zivkoff lives at 470 Cline avenue.

MOVE FAST ON TERMINAL PAY

House Committee Prepares to Get Appropriation Needed For GI Payments.

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The House Appropriations committee signalled full steam ahead today on President Truman's request for $2,679,493,000 to pay enlisted men for unused furlough time.

While a senate-house conference committee sought to decide whether the bill authorizing the terminal payments should provide for all cash or part in bonds, Chairman Cannon (D-Mo) called a meeting of the Appropriations committee for tomorrow to approve the actual money.

Cannon told reporters "We expect to have our bill ready for the house by Monday."

The president estimated that average payments would be $165, with a total of $1,183,068,000 for the army, $736,130,000 for the navy and $60,295,000 for the coast guard.

Of the full amount, Mr. Truman estimated $2,658,658,000 would be needed for actual payments and $20,835,000 for administrative expenses.

The president's request provides for payment in bonds of all amounts in excess of $50.

The bond provision, which originated in the senate, is the main point of difference between the senate and the house. It provides for issuance of non-negotiable bonds redeemable at their face value, plus interest, five years after the date of discharge of the men receiving them.

The house provided for straight cash payments.

Only officers now receive terminal leave pay.

Route Pays Off For Brothers

HAMMOND, Ind. - (U.P.) — A newspaper route "corporation" formed two years ago by the five sons of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Renwald has issued its first financial statement.

Profits: $3,145.

They are not just "paper" profits, either. They exist in bank accounts and savings bonds owned by Roland, 14, who has $937, Tommy, 12, $797; Billy, 10, $787; Bobby, 9, $364, and Danny, 7, $260.

The boys who carry three morning, one afternoon and one Sunday paper route, split the profits down to the last penny so that each is fairly rewarded for his contribution

"The bank accounts are nice," says Daddy Renwald, "but those paper routes have given them something money cannot buy—a sense of responsibility.

The three older boys handle the morning routes, but all five cooperate on the 180-paper evening and 1,000-paper Sunday routes. Carts built on bicycle wheels haul the big Sunday loads.

Evidently the customers are satisfied. Cash gifts alone from customers last Christmas totaled $180.

50 PLANES IN OHIO TOUR TO VISIT AIRPORT

Court of Queens, Gas Model Contest Will Feature Afternoon Program.

An all Ohio air tour sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce will bring 50 planes to the municipal airport at 3 p. m. Sunday, Roy Phillips, vice-chairman of the aviation committee announced today.

A court of queens is being selected to meet and the Ohio touring airmen and a gas model airplane contest will be held at 2 p m. as part of the afternoons program.

Already selected as Mansfield's queen was Susan Lake, 162 Lind avenue. Attendants to Mansfield's queen will be Barbara Chatlain, Olivesburg road, Patricia Bancroft, Alta-West road, and Jane Senert, 100 Dawson avenue.

Phillips reported that Jean Roth has been selected as the Shelby queen Queens were still to be named at Mt. Gilead, Ashland, Galion and Crestline, Phillips said

All queens and attendants will be flown to Wooster to meet the air tour in a Beechcraft executive transport and will return to Mansfield with the flight

The model airplane contest to be staged preceding the arrival of the touring planes is open to anyone wishing to enter a gas model plane. Prizes will be awarded to contest winners

Contestants wishing to enter should notify Marion Southward, 528 Harter avenue, telephone 5274-7 before noon Sunday.

Expected to visit Mansfield today to complete final arrangements for the tours stop at Mansfield are Kook Cleland flight director of the tour and Walter L Baughton, secretary of the Cleveland Chamber of Commerce.

Both men will confer with J H. Finefrock, jr., president of Mansfield Junior Chamber of Commerce and Roy Phillips.

Although open to airman from all over Ohio the tour will consist of flyers from the Cleveland area, Phillips said

Fear Slim Peach Crop

peaches than to any other fruit" Mrs. Mills said "Our crop will be way below normal"

Meanwhile, Mansfielders were depending upon southern peaches for table use

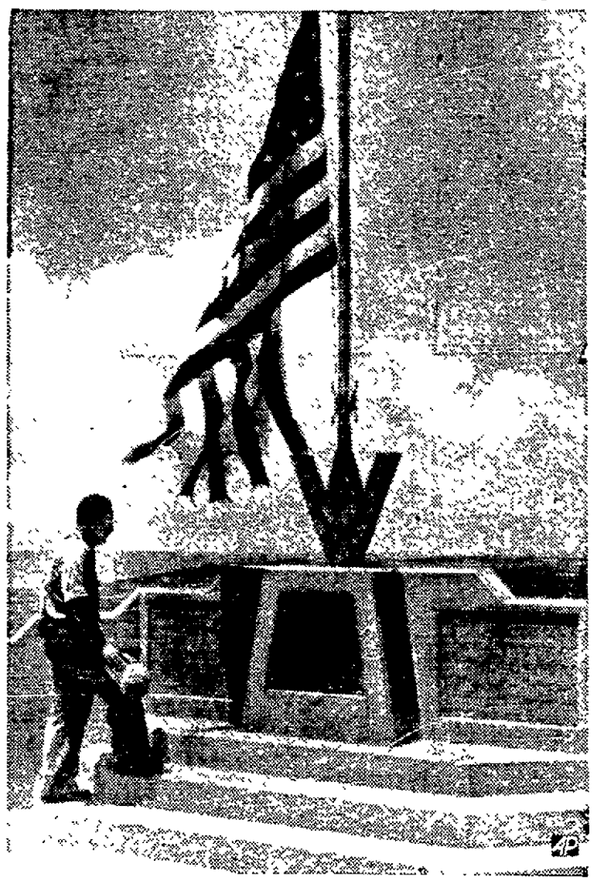
Paul E Sturges, president of the Central Fruit and Grocery company, said that Georgia peaches have been coming to the city for the past six weeks and that South Carolina varieties are on the way next week.

"They seem to have a pretty fair crop in the south because the peaches measure up to those we've received in bumper years," he said.

"Retail prices haven't varied over 50 to 75 cents" he added Peaches are selling for $3 50 and $4 per bushel. Sturges said.

Reports from Clyde, O., previously indicated a good peach crop in that area.

Suribachi Different Today



Joe Rosenthal, who took the historic Iwo Jima flag raising picture atop Mt. Suribachi Feb. 23, 1945, visits the monument which now marks the spot. Rosenthal, staff photographer for the San Francisco Chronicle on leave to illustrate a NATS book, made the flag picture as an Associated Press cameraman with the wartime still picture pool.

Fined $100 for Intoxication But It's Not First Offense

Charged with intoxication Clarence King, 388 First avenue, was fined $100 and costs today in municipal court. Although the normal fine for intoxication is $10 Judge H H Schettler boosted King's fine to $100 because of repeated convictions for the same offense

Also in court today, 19-year-old Milton Pryor, formerly of Nashville Tenn and now employed by the Pennsylvania railroad at Crestline, was fined $10 and costs on a charge of being a suspicious person

Pryor was said to have accepted payment of $1.50 for damages to a car he did not own and which were allegedly caused by a Shelby man's car When arrested, Pryor was found to have the registration certificate for a car owned by a Crestline man He said he found the registration

Fined $5 and costs on a charge of operating a motor vehicle with license plate issued for another was William E. Duncan, 398 Buffalo street. He was fined $50 of which the court remitted $45

The case of Marjory Piper, Mansfield, R. D. 2, charged with failing to display a motor vehicle operator's license, was continued until Aug 2

However, the postmark shows that he lives in Solmona, Aguila, Italy. Solmona is a town about 80 miles east of Rome. Guennio says the last news he had from his father was 13 years ago. At that time he was living on North Diamond street in Mansfield.

Enclosed with a hard-to-read note in English was a two page letter in Italian Vaughn is going to turn both over to the police department in an effort to locate the father perhaps even stronger than the bomb that razed most of Nagasaki last August—the atomic bomb did not immediately sink as many of the 75 target vessels as observers had expected.

Bomb's Big Blast Hurls Sea Skyward

Awesome Rumble Signals Destructive Release of Atomic Power.

The true extent of the damage is still unknown, however. Ships still were "hot" with radioactivity many hours later navy men and scientists edged ever closer and re-entered the lagoon with sensitive instruments, tryng to determine the danger and ascertain the full damage as soon as possible

The radioactivity was so great that two tugs which went to the rescue of the Saratoga, under orders from Task Force Commander Vice Adm. W. H. P Blandy to try to beach her, had to turn back and let the gallant old lady die alone

The battleship New York and the Japanese battleship Nagato were listing, evidently damaged, as were the battered carrier Independence, the destroyer, Hughes, the transport Falcon and the heavy cruiser Pensacola.

A reef and ten miles of blue Pacific separated this ship from the target fleet when the bomb went off. Observers had their glasses on the mast of a small landing craft that was above the submerged atom bomb.

A voice on the ship's loud speaker droned off the seconds and the world's fifth atomic bomb was set off by remote radio controls.

An almost incredibly white dome of water rose where the slim mast had stood It glower momentarily Then it spread, at first wide and flat, to perhaps a mile in breadth. Suddenly it shot upward with lightning speed

At the top of the dome, the water spread in a great wide column with a rounded top. In two seconds the top widened like a grotesque mushroom, whose thick stem by that time was nearly a half-mile wide at the base, which in turn was boiling upward.

The air mushroom spread out to more than a mile wide, all this time the entire display was dazzling white

Then from the widening edges of the mushroom umbrella pure white points of water, V-shaped, began streaming down toward the ships. Many of these sprays were larger than any of the big battleships.

At this moment must have been occurring one of the almost incredible phenomena of atomic energy. Water thrown against the Saratoga crushed her massive stack, knocking half of it to the flight deck.

A series of waves spread from the spot where the bomb was detonated. They raced out toward the ships outside the lagoon and some poured over a small island off Bikini's shore The main island was not inundated. Admiral Blandy estimated the wave was seven to ten feet high at Bikini island -lower than had been expected

Less than nine hours after the explosion, this ship entered the legoon, but anchored some distance from the targets

Col Stafford Warren, the radiological safety chief, said that half a dozen target ships on the outer rim of the array were free of contamination when patrol teams got there

He said it might be several days before the ships near the center of the fleet could be boarded safely.

The colonel said that a rain of death-dealing fission particles came down in the lagoon immediately after the millions of tons of lagoon water skyrocketed upward

Later, clouds along a 30-mile front became contaminated with fissionable products. This cloud bank drifted to the northwest. It was tracked by airplanes.

Colonel Warren pointed out that rain from clouds of this nature could be deadly

Tuohy said identification of the handwriting in the two killings was established by Herbert J. Walter, handwriting expert, after a lengthy study of the ransom note, the lipstick writing and Heirens' notebooks.

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, THURSDAY, JULY 25, 1946

Whatever became of that oldtime assurance: "Money cheerfully refunded"?

What a pity that people who boast of always saying what they think seem to have so few pleasant thoughts.

The name of Concord avenue in Washington, D. C., has been changed to "Missouri avenue," not to "Discord avenue," as might have been expected.

OPA Revived In Weakened Form

ASSUMING that President Truman reluctantly signs the OPA bill which won senate approval shortly after midnight today, it may be wondered what effective steps can be taken to bring order out of the chaos that has resulted from temporary suspension of all price controls.

Of primary interest, perhaps, is immediate restoration of rent controls to their June 30 level, which will result in much confusion in cases where rents have been substantially advanced or eviction action taken.

An interesting phase of the new set-up will be the creation of a three-member price control board, which is to have overall authority in the matter of permitting price increases sufficient to assure a reasonable profit.

For the present, it is noted, no control is to be exercised over livestock, meat, poultry, eggs, butter, milk, grains, cottonseed and soybean products, which are to remain on the "free market," at least until August 21, when controls will be automatically restored unless the control board rules otherwise.

On all other commodities June 30 ceilings are restored, subject to revision within thirty days if deemed advisable.

What at least appears clear is that the new bill is so intricate that weeks, probably months, will be required to get any sort of price control back into operation—and it will even be difficult to place the blame for OPA's failure to function in a way that might be expected by those who have been hopeful that further price inflation can be avoided.

Sewage Disposal Is Community 'Must'

WHAT must be recognized as a "long-range" municipal project—but one that will eventually have to be carried through, is expansion of Mansfield's sanitary sewer system and sewage treatment facilities to the extent of not only adequately meeting requirements within present corporate limits but also reaching to suburban areas which may reasonably expect to later become a part of this city.

This subject was brought to attention yesterday in the report of a conference which Mayor Vaughn and other city officials held with local and state health officers—for this is primarily a community health matter.

Many years ago, as a much smaller city, Mansfield installed a sewage disposal plant which was then so modern and satisfactory as to attract visitors from all over the country, and which was a model for similar installations in a number of other cities.

The present plant, which was expected to serve until 1960, is already being operated to its limit and there will be need for an increase in capacity in the very near future.

If, as suggested, plans can be made—and financing methods devised—to carry through a program of sewer line construction and sewage treatment which will take a long look into the future, instead of merely serving immediate needs, the project will be worthy of unqualified approval.

Many Will Drive Out Airport Way

EXCEPT for lack of constant aerial maneuvers and stunt flying, it appears quite likely that any Sunday this summer will provide sufficient attractions at Mansfield's new airport to draw many visitors from city and vicinity.

It is noted, for instance, that next Sunday is to bring a delegation of women pilots from all parts of the state to the local port—members of the All-Ohio 99's, state chapter of the international organization of women pilots.

Traffic congestion last Sunday prevented many Mansfielders from reaching the airport, and an evening or Sunday trip out North Main street will probably be popular for some time to come.

While traffic jams such as that of last Sunday are unlikely, except on special occasions, it should be kept in mind that careful driving will be required, if accidents are to be avoided, and that more than ordinary policing of the airport highway will be advisable.

Englishman Expresses Friendly Views

GRAHAM HUTTON, an English man who says he has spent five of the happiest years of his life in our middle western states, has written a book called "Midwest At Noon." This region he calls the most typically American part of the country.

Many Europeans, from De Tocqueville and Mrs. Trollope to James Bryce, have written of America with varying degrees of tolerance or intolerance, but none has viewed us with more real kindness and understanding than has Mr. Hutton.

He traces the rise of our present-day manners and customs from our pioneer origins, and describes the life and habits of people in rural districts, in small towns, and in cities of all ranges of population. This is done with real warmth of feeling and a depth of understanding which endear him to the reader.

More books like this written by authors about other countries than their own would be an immense help toward world peace. We have had enough smart, clever, superficial volumes which prove nothing except their writer's desire to seem superior. What is needed is simple friendliness and a real desire to understand the ways of others, and to interpret them to the world.

Registration at 18 Required

OVERSIGHT, rather than intent to ignore the law, is probably responsible for failure of some young men to register under the selective service act on the day they reach the age of 18.

This is a duty, however, which should not be neglected, and the attention of parents, as well as of youths themselves, is directed to this requirement. It is explained that while induction is not to be until the age of 19 has been reached, registration is still required at 18.

"The Norwegian owner of a pair of Hitler's pants offers to sell them for $2,000"—but surely the clothing shortage doesn't justify any such price.

SIT DOWN STRIKE

Legal Traditions Conformed To In Trial of Nazis at Nuremberg

By RAYMOND MOLEY

BECAUSE of its length, the Nuremberg trial is daily running into a declining state of indignation in this country.

The passage of time destroyed all chance for justice after the first World war. But conditions are different in this case. The accused people are being tried by a court composed of the victorious Allies, not by German courts. The issue is more clear-cut, particularly with regard to the grosser offenders. And the prosecution has been well prepared.

But Americans should, despite the passage of time and preoccupation with new international difficulties, keep their eyes on the issues. These issues are timeless. They affect the whole future of justice on earth.

Although a vast amount of detailed evidence has come through in the news, the main issues are simple and clear. Justice Robert H. Jackson has stated them over and over with authentic ability. Now he has simplified them for us again in an introduction to a little book by Professor Sheldon Glueck of the Harvard Law school, "The Nuremberg Trial and Aggressive War."

In an earlier statement, Mr. Jackson summed it up by saying that these defendants are being tried "not for losing a war, but for starting a war." Now Mr. Jackson has restated the basic law which these defendants are accused of violating. That law is that it is a crime to make a war of aggression.

The law that aggressive war is a crime was restated in the London Four-Power Agreement of August 8, 1945. This agreement, drawn up by jurists and lawyers, stated that aggressive war has been a crime and is a crime.

Hence, although some of the defendants are claiming that the law under which they are tried is ex post facto, the issue is foreclosed. Professor Glueck outlines the body of international law, which preceded the war, which made aggressive war a crime.

The only ex post facto part of the Nuremberg proceedings is the court itself, for it was created after the crime was committed. This point troubles some scrupulous or over-scrupulous lawyers.

But the fact is that no courts which could apply the law existed at the end of the war.

The act of starting the war was committed in Germany, and Germany was shattered. Besides, the ancient protection against ex post facto law was made to protect people against law, not against courts. The issue at Nuremberg is whether the court has rules of procedure to guarantee a fair trial. Judged by the standards of all civilized countries, the rules of procedure in this court do assure a fair trial.

Under this interpretation of the trials, what happened in the war—that murders, the persecutions, the treachery and deceit—are results, not causes. Having plotted an aggressive war, all the resultant crimes fall upon the war-makers.

If a burglar enters your house and if someone is killed, the act of burglarizing renders the offender guilty of homicide.

The defendants have tried to invoke all the protections—protections developed by England and the United States, not by Germany. The defendants themselves lived their lives in defiance of any law but that of their own making. Do they deserve these protections? Yes, they do, if the law—the basic law—is on their side. But Messrs. Jackson and Glueck show that the law is not on their side.

A reading of Dr. Glueck's book ought to satisfy the doubts of any American lawyer that none of our treasured traditions are being violated at Nuremberg.

L. W. Frizzell garage, 20 Bowman street, was burglarized and $200 worth of accessories stolen.

Employes of Schwarz grill, 21 East Fourth street, enjoyed family picnic at Chippewa lake.

One hundred and twenty-five Mansfielders went to Cedar Point on B. & O. excursion.

Glenn J. Headley, 40 Lida street, World war veteran, was drowned at Grand Forest Beach, while swimming in Lake Erie.

Morse Is "Peck's Bad Boy" of Senate.

WASHINGTON — In the brief time he has been in the senate, Oregon's Republican Sen. Wayne Morse has made himself probably the most controversial figure in that contentious club. He has become a king of Peck's Bad Boy, lighting firecrackers with great glee under those of his colleagues whom he finds overly smug or overly cautious.

Morse arouses great ire among various and sundry people in Washington.

The surviving New Dealers speak of him with utter contempt, they accuse him of making political deals when he was a member of the War Labor Board.

Tory Republicans in the senate fairly froth at the mouth when they speak of the bad boy from the west. Senators such as Albert W. Hawkes of New Jersey and E. H. Moore of Oklahoma regard him with all the cordiality that would greet a gila monster found in the midst of a cozy picnic ground. Even for conservatives like Sen. Robert A. Taft of Ohio, he is a hair-shirt.

Now, in the closing days of the session, when everything is touch and go, Morse is missing no opportunities to go to bat for his favorite causes—and the list of causes is a long one.

The other day, in the midst of a parliamentary scrimmage, he succeeded in getting the anti-poll tax bill raised as an amendment to the tidelands oil bill, which all proper-thinking states-righters to say nothing of those who speak for the big oil companies wanted passed.

To their considerable embarrassment Republicans from oil-producing states had to vote against the bill in order to bring the oil bill to final passage. This was exactly the kind of parliamentary firecracker Morse delights in setting off.

It was on another issue, however, that the senator from Oregon stirred behind-the-scenes resentment. The issue was senate resolution 196, which would have the United States file with the United Nations a declaration that it will accept compulsory jurisdiction of the world court over any dispute arising between the United States and any other nation of the world accepting the same obligation.

Morse learned that in secret session the senate foreign relations committee had decided to postpone consideration of the resolution, of which he is the author.

This was done with the encouragement of Senators Tom Connally and Arthur H. Vandenberg, who were reported as believing that it was too early for such a resolution. Agreeing also was Sen. Warren R. Austin of Vermont, named by President Truman to head the U. S. delegation to the United Nations.

Morse at this point took the senate floor. He praised Sen. Vandenberg in high terms for his speech reporting on the foreign ministers' meeting in Paris. Then he put the burr under the saddle:

"Here is an opportunity to practice as well as to speak about establishing a world order of permanent peace based upon international justice through law."

In Sen. Elbert D. Thomas of Utah, Morse has a valiant ally. Together they may succeed in forcing consideration of the resolution before adjournment. And Morse has other firecrackers he is likely to set off before congress goes wearily homeward.

Stretching Dollars In Salt Lake City.

(Editor's Note: This is the second of several stories on where today's dollar goes in various American cities. Another will follow soon.

SALT LAKE CITY — "These days of rising costs of living and uncertainties are hard on people, but I don't mind as long as I have something to eat and a place to sleep."

The speaker was a short, alert little woman, whose upswept gray hair stands out in the last row of desks on the ground floor of the big Utah Power and Light company. For the past 27 years Miss Claralynn Exford has worked for this same firm.

"Ever since right after the first World war," she said cheerfully, "Oh, I could be doing much more important work, but my eyes went bad a few years ago and they let me take this easier work,' waving at the tray of cards before her.

As the foregoing quotation would indicate, Miss Exford is inclined to view life with a somewhat bright and optimistic gaze.

Even so, her sparkling hazel eyes clouded slightly over the subject of how far the dollar will stretch in Salt Lake City today.

Thoughtfully she said, "well . . . prices here are not so bad as in the larger cities." Then the curls on top of the upsweep bobbed decisively—"and if they go higher than I think they should, I just don't buy. I am going to stop eating butter, and I love butter. . . ."

Butter costs 80 cents a pound. It used to cost 40.

To estimate what else Claralynn "just doesn't buy" required a little inspection of her income and expenses.

She and her older sister, Jennie, live together in an apartment with Claralynn's monthly $150 as their sole source of income.

And that isn't net. Deductions delete $20 for income tax, $1.50 for social security—not to mention $2 union dues and a $4.40 insurance payment. That leaves $123.10 for living.

"We are really lucky in our apartment. It costs $40 a month, for one bedroom, a large living room, bath, kitchen, entrance hall and service hall," she said, but her fingers were crossed. Nearby rents have been raised about 15 per cent recently and they are expecting to have to pay about $6 more soon.

About $40 a month goes for household expenses, food, soap, new brooms and so forth — and about $5 for utilities. Claralynn often brings her own lunch to save money "and come what may, I always take out two dollars a month for Liberty Bonds." They called them that in the first war.

Car fare costs about $5 a month, leaving the sisters $30.10 for recreation, clothing, doctor bills, cosmetics, emergencies and savings. That breaks down to less than $3.75 apiece a week and, if the rent goes up, it will be even less.

"I don't go in much for clothes," Claralynn explained with a laugh looking down at her smartly simple-print dress, "and we don't eat very much—even if I don't look it. We go to the movies once in a while."

All in all, she thinks they are pretty lucky as long as they "have something to eat and a place to live."

She would like to see butter go back to 40 cents a pound and milk go back to where it was. And she would like "for all things to go down again, but then I guess we wouldn't be making the salaries we do now."

The pert upsweep shook a negative answer to her own question, unspoken though it was, but suddenly her philosophic optimism slipped away.

"It isn't so bad for some of us," and her gesture took in all of the Salt Lake City, which boasts one of the nation's highest percentages of home owners. She added:

"But some people who need milk can't get it now. And I do feel so sorry for those young boys who went across and fought the war. Now they have to come back and they can't pay these prices and they are not even able to find a place to live."

Unhappy now, the hazel eyes held just a hint of tears.

Timely Editorial

This Offender Is White.

William Heirens, white, is being enveloped by a tightening net of evidence concerning several Chicago murders. Chief of them is the Degnan kidnap case, one of America's most heinous postwar crimes.

But so far there has been no outcry against the white race. No one seems to feel that Caucasians are on trial because Heirens happens to be one of them.

The only point in bringing up the matter is that the first arrest in the Degnan slaying placed a Negro janitor in custody. His innocence established, he soon was released. However, if the eventual suspect had proved to be colored, a lot of people now would be saying that it just goes to show that the Negroes can't be trusted.

It goes to show that racial intolerance can't be trusted, no matter who the individual is who commits any particular crime.—Minneapolis Star-Journal.

"E" Award Followed Discovery of Fraud.

WASHINGTON — The Mead committee, which has done such an excellent job of probing Congressman May and war profiteering, might do a little further digging into phony E-awards and possible connections with the Kentuckian who still chairmans the house military affairs committee.

Specifically, they might examine an E-award given to General Tire and Rubber company, the very same company which got May's nephew out of the army after he had been in only nine days, and is still paying him a juicy salary.

If the Mead committee should probe deeply enough they would unearth the following amazing facts:

General Tire and Rubber had a contract with the army to make pneumatic floats for the army engineers. These were big rubber bags which were inflated with air and used to hold up pontoon bridges. The famous crossing of the Rapido river in Italy and almost every military crossing of water was done by pontoon bridges supported by rubber floats. These rubber floats, of course, had to be absolutely airtight.

Fraud on Army.

However, when General Tire floats were tested by the army engineers—in advance of acceptance—it was discovered that General Tire employes would deliberately pump up the floats during the night, thus deceiving army inspectors.

The floats were required to maintain a certain pressure for 24 hours, and when the pressure would go down, General Tire people would pump them up while army inspectors weren't around.

This fraud finally was discovered, and a report very critical of General Tire was filed by army engineers. The army also secured confessions from about twenty General Tire employes.

Despite this discovery of deliberate fraud, General Tire later was awarded the much coveted E, supposed to go only to companies performing the highest war service.

Furthermore, not only was the fraud hushed up, but afterward, General Tire and Rubber company was given a lush contract at Huntington, W. Va., where Congressman May's nephew, William H. May, occupied a mysterious but very profitable role, working for General Tire.

How much, if anything, the chairman of the military affairs committee had to do with this is not known. However, the whole thing would bear investigation.

In another case, it is known that May pulled wires to get an E for his friends, the Erie Basin company, overriding the recommendation of army officers who opposed the E.

In the case of General Tire, several army engineers who knew the real truth about the rubber pontoon floats, were vigorously opposed to the E award. But their recommendation also was overridden.

Capital Chaff.

Senatorial colleagues of Montana's Burt Wheeler refused to believe up to the very end that Wheeler stood in real danger of defeat. Final tipoff that he was in trouble was Wheeler's statement, in reply to an attack by Jimmy Roosevelt, that FDR had asked Wheeler to be his vice presidential running mate in 1940 . . . Typical reaction to this was Majority Leader Alben Barkley's comment: "That's one lie nobody in the entire country will believe."

What Political Future for Arnall?

ATLANTA—How about young Ellis Arnall, now that Gene Talmadge has staged a comeback here in Georgia?

It was by defeating the rambunctious Georgia demagogue and driving him from the governor's office that Ellis Arnall first claimed national attention four years ago—the young knight who slew the dragon.

From there he went forward by his administration of affairs to become one of the outstanding progressive leaders of the South and in his party. Georgia became a symbol of progressivism in government.

Now Gene Talmadge has changed all that.

There is no denying the setback, both for the state and the young man who will go out of office in January. Ellis Arnall, an ambitious man, had begun to look beyond the state for bigger political opportunity.

His political power here has been checked by the Talmadge victory, at least temporarily. This is partly through loss of prestige by his defeat, though that was none too decisive since his candidate did carry the popular vote. The chief adverse effect comes from the shift of power to Mr. Talmadge, who has an instinct for power and its abuse.

This puts the Georgia demagogue in a position to block Ellis Arnall's preferment, for example, as vice presidential figures.

For Gene will control the convention delegation. The chance of any southerner for the vice presidential nomination is small at best, for the south always votes Democratic anyhow, and has no bargaining power.

The young Georgian undoubtedly has enhanced his reputation with the rest of the country because of his forthright stand on the issue which lost his forces the election, despite the defeat here. He is still a young man. There is likely to be a revulsion against Talmadgeism which will react favorably for him.

He says:

"I made one mistake—to stand behind the Constitution and the Supreme Court."

The reference, of course, is to his appeal to the people of Georgia to accept the mandate of the supreme court abolishing the "white primary" and to permit Negroes to vote, as many of them did.

This became the big issue. Mr. Talmadge used it for all it was worth—"white supremacy." He distorted it with vicious misrepresentations, until it was sickening to hear him.

But his appeal to the deepest sad to say, among many of the better class of voters, who were willing to forget all the things he had done to the state in three previous terms as governor. Easily he rallied the ignorant, the ill-favored.

The young governor says now he's through with politics. It's not taken seriously, for, at the same time, he is preparing to continue his speeches all over the country after he leaves office.

He won't discuss any plans beyond that. But he could run for the senate two years from now against Senator Richard B. Russell, or he might be appointed to Washington, as has been rumored from time to time.

No one expects him to retire. He'll be heard from again, you may be sure.

Farmer's Diary: "With Wings, As Eagles."

TODAY I have had an unexpected thrill that sent me about the farm whistling all the patriotic tunes I knew . . . from "My Country 'Tis of Thee," through "America the Beautiful"—to the Doxology.

In a portfolio of striking views made by artist Kenneth S. Fagg, for the August issue of Holiday magazine, even an earthbound harvest hand may take a new perspective on his native country, as seen from the air. This series of paintings, called "Airborne", has seven views; they are a "visual rendition" of Walt Whitman's lines:

"The earth expanding right hand and left hand.
The picture alive, every part in in its best light . . .
I inhale great draughts of space.
The East and the West are mine,
And the North and the South are mine."

First, New York—the Manhatton towers and the Hudson River beyond — sungilded and glowing with imagined splendor; then Pennsylvania, a patchwork of farms and forest merging into the purple Alleghenies; then Michigan —blue Lake St. Clair, with anchored flotilla of lake craft and clustering summer cottages; and then Wisconsin, a mosaic of purple water, vivid green forest and billowing croplands, cut across by ribbons of highway;

The Mississippi River — lined with barges — mustard yellow water, churned white by a river steamer; Colorado Canyon, mystery-shaded gorges, with awful richness of coloring cut by water through a million years; and finally, the "purple mountain majesty" of Mt. Rainier, dominating a sea of clouds and peaks—cool and calm and undisturbed.

Whoever experiences these pictures must needs draw a deep breath—and those I have tried them on, invariably responded with a quick delighted, "Why, I was there . . . let's see now . . ."

The charm of the feature, as I see it, is the new perspective it gives, with amazing speed, to those of us who have never before had "wings." But one friend opines, "No, it's the colors that make it memorable . . ." and another says, "What queer, small, abstract markings man makes upon the vast earth, seen from up there!"

One thing sure, whether you are an artist, an airman, an invalid, a business man, or just a plain hard-working farmer, it will do you good to "mount up with wings as eagles" along with this sky-travelling artist. Take a look for yourself.

CIO Leadership Ponders New Strategy.

Walter Lippman will be on vacation for several weeks, during which time Stewart Alsop, popular writer on national topics, will substitute for him.

WASHINGTON—Top leaders of the CIO, faced with the dangers to the labor movement inherent in a steep rise in the cost of living, are seriously considering an entirely new labor strategy to deal with the situation, if prices get out of control.

If this strategy, now being gravely discussed by the CIO leadership, is finally decided upon, it will certainly have the most profound effect on the political and economic future of the country. For the intentions of labor, as indicated in the last report in this space, form the crux of the whole price control crisis.

Labor leaders are fully conscious of the fact that the compromise price control measure may well break down under the enormous inflationary pressure with which it will be confronted.

The more thoughtful among them also fully realize that strikes on the traditional pattern might well degenerate into the futile game of the dog chasing his own tail, with strikes and wage increases serving only to add fuel to the inflationary flames.

Therefore for the immediate future the CIO leadership hopes to hold unions to their contracts, at least until the contracts run out, even if there is an appreciable rise in the cost of living.

Two Choices.

But if living costs really go up with a vengeance, which is certainly still possible, the rank and file of union men will demand higher wages in no uncertain voice, and any union leader who stands in their way will no longer be a union leader.

When and if that happens as a number of the top CIO strategists see it, the labor movement will be faced with two alternatives.

One alternative is to proceed with the traditional wage demands, to be followed by strikes if management refuses to come to what seems to the unions a reasonable settlement. In the inflationary period of a sellers market, this traditional strike weapon would, many union leaders believe, be futile. Increased wages might be cancelled out in a matter of weeks by increased prices.

That is why some CIO leaders are seriously considering the possibilities of using the strike weapon in another way, if government controls on prices prove ineffective. The idea is that agreements on production, and by extension on prices and profits, should be tied into future union-management contracts.

The economic theory on which this idea is based is most clearly expressed in Chester Bowles' book, "Tomorrow Without Fear," which preaches that one of the basic reasons for depressions has been in the past that the mass of workers and consumers do not share sufficiently in the benefits of increased production per man hour.

CIO leaders point out, moreover, that the break-even point (the point in production when manufacturers begin to make a profit) averages according to union figures not much over 50 per cent of full production capacity. While in some industries it is as high as 90 per cent, in others it is as low as 20 per cent.

This low average break-even point, the union leaders argue, reduces the manufacturer's interest in operating at capacity, since the more he produces, the more likely is the market to become saturated, and the price of his product to fall.

The theory that competition will force the cost of living down is thus, the union men argue, gravely qualified. Competition among consumers will, on the contrary, tend to force prices up, while competition among workers for jobs will force wages down, a cycle which will constantly force prices and profits up until the bubble inevitably bursts.

One Thing Is Clear.

That, too briefly, is the thesis of some top CIO strategists. From it they conclude that, if the cost of living begins really to get out of hand, agreements to force the break-even point up in industries where it is low should become a primary objective of union strategy.

It is obvious that this would mean that the unions would concern themselves deeply with prices and profits as well as production, since prices and profits are certainly two important elements in the break-even point.

If such a tie-in of production, prices, profits and wages does become an established part of CIO strategy, it will be a profoundly significant new departure. Since it is still no more than a talking point, and since it would depend on an undetermined degree of rising living costs, it is perhaps futile to attempt to guess what its meaning for the future might be.

One thing, however, is certainly clear. Strikes with this sort of objective would be resisted more bitterly, and would engender more anger and bitterness on both sides of the economic fence than the most violent strike waves of the past. It must be fervently hoped that the price control compromise, together with a moderate degree of self-restraint on all sides, will keep the cost of living within reasonable bounds.

Try and Stop Me

—By Bennet Cerf

A fable that always gave me a chuckle concerned the Persian emperor who spied an old man planting a walnut tree. He drew rein to ask his age.

"I am four," the peasant said. When the emperor frowned, he added, "I do not speak in jest for the wise do not reckon the time they have squandered in folly; I consider my real age only the time I have spent serving my emperor."

The emperor, impressed, pointed out, "By your reckoning, you will never see those trees you are planting come to perfection". "True", agreed the sage, "but since others have planted that we may eat, it is only fair that we should plant for those who follow us."

"Excellent," pronounced the emperor and tossed him a purse of gold. The old man bowed low and said, "Oh, King, other men's trees take forty years to come to perfection but mine have produced fruit as soon as they were planted."

"Bravo", said the monarch and tossed another purse. "Ah," cried the old man. "The trees of others bear fruit only once a year but mine have yielded two crops in ten minutes."

"Delighted," breathed the emperor, turning over a third purse. Then he whispered to his party, "Let's get out of here or this witty old fellow will break the royal exchequer."

Headwarmers Star for Fall

By DOROTHY ROE
(AP Fashion Editor)

Head-hugging, back-slanted, young and gay—these are the new hats for fall, as presented in a summer preview by Sally Victor, who guarantees to keep your ears warm, come zero weather.

Her "cozycaps," in angora jersey, ermine and even mink, are really glorified scarfs fitted over a small front pad to give a flattery halo effect, and tied snugly under the chin. Sally says she used plain, ordinary shoulder pads and pin cushions for the padding, predicts that the caps will be copied in every price bracket.

Another new silhouette is the "bonnie," a smooth, head-fitting little hat slanting back to a peak, slightly reminiscent of the headgear of the Lily Maid of Astolat. It is done in felt, fur or fabric.

Third hit of the hat parade is the "drum bonnet," which has the same back-slant as the "bonnie," but a high, drum-shaped crown. It suggests the bonnets of the Elegant Eighties.

The hats depend more on line and less on trimmings than in the last few seasons. They are head-fitting, staying on without benefit of elastic or hatpins. And most of them are youthful in feeling, pushed back to show the forehead.

ENTERTAIN RECENT BRIDE.

Wednesday evening 14 of the employees of the telephone office entertained Mrs. Clarence L. Craft, the former Miss Dorothy Jones, with dinner at the Sky Club.

Use of 'Fine' In Daily Conversation

By EMILY POST

Easily within my own memory, the reply "Fine!" when greeted "How are you?" was in as bad taste as calling strangers "dearie." Today, however, it is said by almost everyone. But that there still remain hypercritical persons who disapprove is indicated in the following letter:

"When someone asks me on the telephone how I am, I am apt to answer, 'Just fine, thank you . . . and you?' My husband and son both object to all of this answer. I can't see what's wrong with any of it. Won't you give me your opinion?"

As already said, "Fine" was tabu and still is avoided by the hypercritical, but said by practically everyone else. The "And you?" might, I think, become very annoying if said habitually, just as all little mannerisms do. To vary "How are you?" "How are things with you?" "What is your news?" or a question about a definite happening would be better.

Dear Mrs. Post: Is all wearing of black by a bride at her wedding out of place? The bride is being married at home with only families and a few friends present. She was married before and is now wearing a day dress and hat. The dress she'd like to wear is of summer crepe: Black background but splashed with colorful flowers. She could keep this same dress on to start out on the wedding trip. Some of her friends acted so horrified at the thought of even this much black on a bride that she thought perhaps there was some significance attached to it that she didn't know. Hence, this letter to you on her behalf.

Answer: For a second marriage, the sort of black you mentioned would be quite permissible. An all-black dress would not.

Dear Mrs. Post: How should a dentist be addressed on the envelope of a letter to him? I suppose that when one sends a check it should be John Painless, D.D.S., because that is the way the billhead appears. But I'm talking about writing a social letter.

Answer: Address him Dr. John Painless.

Washington Letter

—By Jane Eads

WASHINGTON—A large cross-section of German prisoners of war were asked just before repatriation what they considered the most important single idea they had learned during internment in America.

The poll was conducted by the Office of the Provost Marshal General to discern attitudes and opinions of the prisoners in order that the re-educational program they had been given at camp might be beter evaluated. The poll was conducted at Camp Shanks, the New York Port of Embarkation, at Fort Eustis, Va., and at Prisoner of War Camp, Atlanta, Neb.

No names, serial numbers nor other means of identification were requested. Prisoners were instructed to print the answers if they feared identification of their handwriting.

Here are some typical answers: "I have learned how fast the Nazis turned to become good democrats."

"If Germany would dominate America, there wouldn't be any jobless."

"I was impressed by the freedom of the press. I was dismayed to find the horrible housing conditions for the working classes. Provisions for old age pensions, and health insurance are very poor."

"America conducts a propaganda program against any nation that becomes too powerful. First it was directed against Germany, now against Russia."

"Americans drink too much. Americans don't like to work and cheat their government."

"An American works in order to live: the German lives for nothing but work."

"The American civilians know very little about democracy. They were unable to answer most of our questions. We PWs have learned about democracy in lectures. Why don't you do the same thing for the people here?"

"Americans claim that the atom bomb is a product of their own scientists, which is not likely because the first atom bomb was dropped after Germany's defeat, indicating that this invention was made by Germans and brought to America."

"The American is childish and profit-seeking and rarely keeps his word to a PW. I don't even trust this questionnaire."

In its report the office of the provost marshal general says that, on the whole, the answers were "positive, were favorable in commenting on our freedoms, or unfavorable in pointing out our poverty, race discriminations and illusions of democracy."

"The democratic relationship between officers and enlisted men drew many comments," it says, adding:

"Although many of the unfavorable comments were strongly phrased, the low percentage (20%) is encouraging."

Of a dozen more questions which were asked, eight were designed to test the PWs' Nazis convictions. About 64 per cent of the answers to these questions indicated that the men had been favorably impressed by their instruction in democracy.

Your Figure, Madame

—By Ida Jean Kain

The old idea that pounds should pile on with birthdays receiveth a good swift kick in the scales on the Ideal Weight Charts. And high time. As a rule a man takes his avoirdupois too lightly to be aided and abetted by delusory charts that lull him into high blood pressure.

The so-called standard weight charts represent averages. And since the average man carries the appetite he acquires during his football days right along to his desk job, weight goes up with the years and the charts indicate that trend. Naturally. But that doesn't make it normal.

By the way, what did you weigh at 25? And what do you weigh now? Chances are the difference is not favorable, for your normal weight during early adult life is healthiest right along as indicated by the Ideal Weight Charts for Men worked out by the Metropolitan Life Insurance company. The chart lists three basic types, small, medium and large frame, for each height. If you're in doubt about your frame, settle for medium.

which your weight is normal. This zone allows for individual and racial differences in build, and shows the least you should weigh for your height and frame, and the most

Regardless of your frame, excess fat plastered on the waist is not in the interest of longevity. The rule-of-thumb adage, "For every inch by which a man's waist-measure exceeds his chest-measure subtract two years from his life expectation," indicates that the excess pounds that extend beltlines, shorten lifelines.

If you are considerably over

IDEAL WEIGHTS FOR MEN—AGES 25 AND OVER

HEIGHT (With Shoes)		WEIGHT IN POUNDS (As Ordinarily Dressed)
Feet	Inches	Small Frame	Medium Frame	Large Frame
5	2	116-125	124-133	131-142
5	3	119-128	127-136	133-144
5	4	122-132	130-140	137-149
5	5	126-136	134-144	141-153
5	6	129-139	137-147	145-157
5	7	133-143	141-151	149-162
5	8	136-147	145-156	153-166
5	9	140-151	149-160	157-170
5	10	144-155	153-164	161-175
5	11	148-159	157-168	165-180
6	0	152-164	161-173	169-185
6	1	157-169	166-178	174-190
6	2	163-175	171-184	179-196
6	3	168-180	176-189	184-202

Of course there is no chart that can tell to the pound what your perfect weight should be. But there is a weight zone within normal weight for your frame, put yourself in the hands of a good doctor and find the cause. Overeating is the favorite. But there are other causes However, as the doctor will warn, keeping your weight normal year in and year out is largely up to you.

HOROSCOPE

For Friday, July 26.

IT IS probable that a subtle or intangible set of circumstances may be at the root of a slowing-down process, with a letting down of the previous high tempo and strenuous state of the energies and ambitions.

It might manifest in a suspicious or relaxed mental slant, in which doubts and fears, a sense of disillusion, might arrest a most promising course of events. Social, affectional or romantic diversions might be the best method for restoring proper angles on important issues But be watchful, alert to duplicity or intrigues

Those whose birthday it is may find it to their advantage to seek diversions, relaxation or a vacation from too ardent and strenuous activities, which have been operating under high tempo This taxing the nervous and physical condition and beclouding the judgment or warping decisions.

There are subtle, singular and intriguing situations, in which clever strategies or astute moves might avert loss or peculiar alliances or dangerous entanglements. Proper perspective may be attained by dispassionate judgments

A child born on this day may have a subtle and emotional nature, warping its practical judgment or wise decisions. While possessing unusual abilities, it may be easily duped.

Reservoir Will Deal Heavy Blow to City Cooling Systems Depending on Tap Water

There'll be some Mansfield merchants—and their customers—who'll be literally "hot under the collar' next year at this time unless they do something now about their stores cooling systems

The predicted "heat wave' will come about—strangely enough—because of the city's new Clear Fork reservoir which should be in operation about a year from now

Water Works Supt O C Kalbfleisch explains it this way

"Many stores have installed air-cooling systems which use cold city water as part of the cooling process In summer the water's temperature is about 54 degrees

"Next year, however, when we begin running water from the new reservoir into city lines the general temperature of the water will be considerably higher—between 60 and 70 degrees"

Hence, Kalbfleisch points out the tap-water cooling devices will have little or no value He recommends that merchants having such systems in their stores consult a good refrigeration man to determine how the systems can be modified

The water works superintendent said that numerous stores use such devices now and others are contemplating their installation

In recommending that merchants consult a refrigeration man now he said that he personally knows of no way that the cooling systems could be modified 'other than perhaps putting ice into the water'

"However we certainly can't keep the reservoir filled with ice cubes to assure sufficiently cold water" he grinned

"Right now there is a pretty constant turn-over of well water in city lines and it is therefore kept rather cold Much water runs directly from wells into homes without standing and thus warming up' Kalbfleisch said

Water will stand for a time—and warm up—in the reservoir This will be especially true during summer months when cooling systems are in use he said

START PROJECT

Japanese Government Votes to Restore Shrine.

TOKYO — (ANS) — The Japanese government has appropriated eight million yen to restore a 1,310-year-old Buddhist shrine from which 12 years ago it took priceless ancient art objects

Restoration of the Horyuji temple, the oldest Buddhist buildings in Japan, will be completed under a five-year reconstruction plan

Japanese workmen uncovered hidden treasure in the centuries-old buildings in 1934 when the Japanese government started restoration of the old shrine The project was interrupted by the war

About the time that the Roman Empire fell and plunged Europe into the Dark Ages, priests of the first Buddhist temple built in Japan hid within the buildings treasured religious objects, which, even then, were hundreds of years old

The compound survived fire thunderbolts, typhoons and civil war for thirteen centuries Several times in its long history the shrine had been repaired remodeled and renovated, but the secret was never discovered

CHICAGO—(LP)—The death toll from accidents among farming people increased by eight per cent last year according to the National Safety Council

The council said 16 000 farm residents were killed in 1945 and 1 500 000 injured, the highest toll since 1942

'The rising farm toll" said Ned H. Dearborn council president "emphasizes the timeliness of President Truman's call for action in his proclamation of July 21-27 as national farm safety week

The council's annual report revealed that

Farm home accidents took the greatest toll with 6 500 deaths as compared with 6 000 in 1944 There were 950 000 non fatal injuries

Motor vehicle accidents rose from 4 300 in 1944 to 4 900 last year

Farm work accidents killed 4 500 including 900 of the motor vehicle fatalities Thirty thousand were injured.

Agriculture suffered 53 accidental deaths per 100 000 workers the rate for all the nation's workers was 31

Public non motor vehicle accidents on and off the farm took 1 000 lives

Fire destroyed farm property valued at $90 000 000 one fifth the national fire loss last year

WESTBROOK PEGLER . . .

NEW YORK—Just as Mussolini and Hitler snarled at their own image in their detestation of Communists and Josef Stalin, so today in our own country we find many bewildered or deliberately dishonest propagandists bewailing the election of Gene Talmadge as governor of Georgia, with the support of the Ku Klux Klan. This actually is a victory for their own principles, as I can easily demonstrate.

Let us take the matter of racial discrimination which is decried most of all because it denies to Negroes opportunities for employment and advancement. Is it any more painful or unjust to a Negro that he be blacklisted because he is a Negro than to a white man to be kept out of work because he refuses to join a union? Let us say that the Negro goes hungry and lives in squalor and is put upon and shunned. But this other person, whom we may call George Spelvin, American, also goes hungry, lives in mean quarters, is persecuted by organized action, attacked by thugs and marked as an outcast.

When have you heard Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, for example, express a single word of human sympathy for citizens with the courage of their convictions, who are the best type of citizen, in their suffering under such persecution? I have read her and others of her political wing very attentively for many years and I have concluded that they endorse persecution of human beings for certain attitudes. It is not persecution of itself that they oppose but only persecution for certain causes, affecting their friends and political followers.

* * *

It is reported from Atlanta that Talmadge intends to appoint an official of the Ku Klux Klan to command the state bureau of investigation. Presumably that means that this bureau will harass Talmadge's opponents and cover up offenses by his adherents.

That would be bad.

But the late President Roosevelt appointed two Communists to high positions in the Labor Relations Board and they in turn manned the organization, with few exceptions, with other Communists and fellow-travelers who were sworn to the proposition that the employer always was a guilty rascal. They were devoted to the cause of the CIO, as William Green of the AFL often said and as a committee of the house of representatives formally reported to congress.

* * *

Mr. Roosevelt also appointed a member of the Ku Klux Klan to the supreme court and then appointed Frank Murphy, because, as governor of Michigan, he had shown that he could be relied on to warp the law, or refuse to enforce it, in favor of Roosevelt's political auxiliary, the CIO.

We all know what the Ku Klux Klan is, but men of honest mind and objective judgment will note that the union movement has imitated the Klan in its most frightening characteristics.

In the entire career of the second Ku Klux Klan, beginning after the first war and ending about 1927, not more than half a dozen killings were reasonably charged to this movement, by comparison with the shocking record of casualties occasioned by the union riots of the 'thirties under Roosevelt. The damage to property was relatively negligible.

But an important difference is that the Klan was instantly suspected and constantly opposed by many brave men, particularly southern editors, until it collapsed. It did threaten, for a time, to become a great popular movement and discredit law and government but it never quite made the grade. The union movement, on the other hand, has had the support of the national government in a similar outrageous career and has been legalized and its force has far exceeded that of the Klan at its height.

Any person who has been complacent toward all this has forfeited his right to denounce the Klan and its relation to Talmadge. He likes that kind of thing. He cannot come into court with clean hands. I happen to be one who can.

HAL BOYLE . . .

By WILLIAM E. MACKLIN
(For Hal Boyle)

LONDON - (AP) - Beneath the wartime rubble of London have been found archaeological secrets which for centuries had been sealed under buildings that foiled the curious researcher.

Investigators have dug down to the ruins of the original London built about 100 A. D. around Ludgate Hill, on which now stands St. Paul's cathedral.

There is evidence that the original Londoners had a pottery industry that could have provided containers for the principal beverage of that period, although there is no evidence that Scotch whisky or tea yet had made inroads among the populace.

W. F. Grimes, keeper of the London museum, who has been conducting the research, said "a skull believed to be that of an inhabitant of Roman London, Roman glazed ware, and cooking pots and jugs of the middle ages are being unearthed."

Manufacturers of that period realized the importance of advertising. Many dishes contain the potter's name.

"We found," Grimes continued, "that the original Roman surface was about 18 feet below the modern road surface, or eight feet below the present London cellars. At that level people had evidently lived for some little time, and instead of stone buildings they had timber buildings as are commonly found in the late prehistoric periods in Britain.

"In iron age times people normally built light timber huts supported on posts sunk in the ground, occasionally having a wooden layer on top of the clay floor."

In one area of the old city a medieval center of the tanning and leather industry was found.

"We discovered a number of funnel-shaped pits, heavily lined with wood, consisting of planks packed by a wicker-work construction," he added. "Probably they were the soaking pits used by the craftsmen of the time."

Even then London had its slums as well as fine buildings. The findings will force a revision of the accepted picture of that period, Grimes said.

The discoveries recalled the chance finding of the famous Roman health resort at the western English city of Bath. In the evacuation for a basement in the last century, 2,000-year-old lead water pipes were unearthed. Further explorations revealed a complete system of swimming pools where Caesar's legions may have got their ultra-violet.

LUCAS BOARD NAMES BARGER SCHOOL HEAD

Veteran Vocational Agriculture Teacher Succeeds J. E. McCollough.

LUCAS — W. S. Barger, vocational agriculture teacher in the Lucas school for the past 22 years, last night was named school superintendent by the Lucas board of education.

Earl Hetrick, Mansfield, R. D. 3, was employed to succeed Barger as vocational teacher.

W. S. BARGER

Barger fills the vacancy created last week by the resignation of J. E. McCollough, who became principal of Shelby high school.

Both Barger and Hetrick are graduates of the Ohio State School of Agriculture. Barger is reported to have served one school longer than any other agriculture teacher in the state, according to an article published this spring in a bulletin of the state department. The story outlined his accomplishments and pictured some of his first students who are now leading farmers of the community.

The war years brought increased duties to the Barger family. Mrs. Barger, who was a school teacher before her marriage, again entered the profession as Lucas' fourth grade teacher, a position she still holds. Barger assumed the job of coaching the basketball team, a position he, too, formerly held.

The Bargers are parents of two children, Robert, a student at Ohio State university after two years army service, and Peggy, a high school senior.

Hetrick has been teaching half days each at Crestline, and Springfield township high school at Ontario. He will continue to reside for the present on Mansfield R. D. 3.

AIRPORT TO GET LIGHTS, BEACON

Service - Safety Director Says Installation Will Begin By Aug. 1.

Mansfield's new airport soon will have lights and a beacon tower but still no major airlines.

While the process of certifying airlines to use the $2,000,000 port moves at snail's pace, the lighting project moves forward somewhat faster.

Service-Safety Director William W. Enlow said today that runway lights and cables have already been shipped to the port by the Civil Aeronautics Authority. Installation is to start August 1. The job is scheduled to be completed on or before Oct. 1.

The 105 runway lights and 51 foot beacon tower will make the port completely ready to handle all types of air traffic.

CANINE 'ESCAPER'—

An indication of the strength of King, Dogwarden C. H. Hill's giant canine pet, lies in an escape he once made from the county dog pound. Hill reports he shut the animal in one of the pound's wire cages. "King doesn't like to have me out of his sight. When I returned for him I found he was gone. I thought someone had stolen him," Hill said. But investigation revealed that the huge dog had reached up, gripped the brass handle of the cage door and twisted it around until the door swung open. "Proof that he had done that, at least as far as I'm concerned, was the bright shiny scratches on the brass handle," Hill said. The animal was found on South Diamond street by former Deputy Sheriff C. C. Gongwer.

DELAYS TRAFFIC—

A baby robin held up traffic on Park avenue east a few days ago but the "how" has just come to light. It seems that the birdling had fallen from its nest smack dab onto the main thorofare. To its rescue came Patrolman Thomas Hempfield. Motorists honked their horns and stretched necks out windows to find out what was up—"the light was green wasn't it, how come we don't move?" But Hempfield calmly held up traffic until he could pick up the AWOL robin and carry it safely to the curb.

WILL MEET ON SCHOOL LEVY

Board Schedules Session on Teacher Pay Increase at 4 P. M. Friday.

Decision on whether a special operating levy for Mansfield city schools in 1947 will be presented to the voters this fall is expected to be made by the Mansfield board of education at a special meeting tomorrow at 4 p. m., it was announced today.

John Eisaman, clerk of the board, said Schools Supt. W. L. Miller and a majority of the board members have notified him they would attend the meeting. Teachers have been notified also, he said.

The special meeting of the board results from a request of teachers that the board consider the matter before Aug. 1, deadline for signing or rejecting teacher contracts for the 1946-1947 school year. The teachers have requested salary increases and it is expected that the special levy, if presented to the voters and passed, would provide the necessary additional money for pay boosts.

OFFICIALS SAY 40 PER CENT CUT LOOMING

Commissioners Agree to Ask For Transfer of $7,000 to Meet Need.

Richland county relief officials yesterday cleared the first hurdle in their drive to bolster the seriously depleted "aid to dependent children" fund when the county commissioners voted to ask sanction of common pleas court for transfer of approximately $7,000 from the public utility excise tax fund.

Unless additional funds for ADC are received soon, families receiving aid will experience a 40 per cent reduction in their grants, Mrs. Katherine McMichael, case supervisor, said.

"Ordinarily our payment list would go to the county auditor today but we're holding it up until Monday in hopes the court will act by then. If it doesn't, there will be a 40 per cent cut in the budget allowed for each family," Mrs. McMichael reported.

Should the $7,000 transfer be allowed, and the state and federal governments match this figure dollar for dollar, it would mean that approximately $100,000 had been provided to ADC this year in Richland county.

Point to Grants.

The county commissioners had originally appropriated $25,000 from the general fund which was matched by an equal amount each from the state and federal government to make a total of $75,000, the commissioners say.

To this amount the commissioners added $1,986.35 in grocery and clothing payments, Cyrus L. Shoup, chairman of the board, declared.

Mrs. Jane Williams, community fund secretary, said this supplemental aid was not matched by the national and state agencies because the payments were not made in cash to the ADC funds.

Should the $7,000 transfer from public utility excise tax funds be approved there appeared to be no indication today of the amount of the matching fund that would be furnished by state and federal agencies.

"There are so many technicalities involved that it is impossible to figure how much the matching fund on this supplemental appropriation would amount to," Mrs. Williams said.

7 Cents Per Meal.

Meanwhile the budget as approved for aid to dependent children, which is now based on 60 per cent of need, provides for only 7.7 cents per meal as compared with 28 cents for county prisoners, Mrs. Williams reported.

With the additional amount asked for "we could operate on a budget allowing for 100 per cent of need or 12.9 cents per meal," she explained.

The above figures are based on a family of five consisting of a mother and four children of graduated ages.

This year's fund is already considerably higher than that approved by the commissioners for 1945 when they approved a transfer of $17,500, their records revealed.

'STILL CRITICAL'

William King, 20, of Crestline, survivor of an auto-truck crash Saturday night which resulted in the death of his fiance, Miss Clarabelle Corbin, 30, also of Crestline, was reported "still in a serious condition" by Bucyrus city hospital today.

Funeral services for Miss Corbin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Corbin, of Wharton, were conducted yesterday from the Church of God at Wharton. The couple were to have been married yesterday.

King received a punctured lung and crushed right arm in the accident. His arm was amputated Monday in Bucyrus hospital.

Mothers Differ, Police Find, In Hunt for Window Breakers

One little boy on North Willis avenue was undoubtedly still smarting today from a well-applied parental hand. But it seems that two other "window busters" from East Third street went Scot free.

Yesterday police received a report that seven large windows at Bushnell street school were smashed by the rock-tossing trio.

They investigated and learned the names and addresses of the three from witnesses. One of the boys was seven years old, the other two nine years old.

A trek to the home of North Willis avenue lad proved fruitful. His mother promised that such windows as her nine year old had smashed would be paid for—and the bill to be "re-paid" by junior.

At the East Third street home, however, officers weren't so successful. The mother of the window busting brothers—ages 7 and 9—forcefully insisted that HER boys most certainly did NOT break anybody's windows.

Police left 'midst a stream of "abusive language" from the mother and turned the case over to juvenile authorities.
